

NEW DETECTIVE CHIEF TO WAGE WAR ON GUNMEN

Elias W. Hoagland, Youngest Holder of Such Post in U. S., Says He Will Get Efficiency at Any Price.

IS KNOWN AMONG CROOKS AS 'THE EYE'

Head of Police Board Asserts Detectives Must Show 'Pep' or Be Fired—400 Seeking Jobs, He Says.

Elias W. Hoagland, 33 years old, the youngest Chief of Detectives in the United States and the youngest member of the St. Louis detective bureau, took charge of the bureau this morning under the appointment made Saturday night by the Board of Police Commissioners, and announced that his aim was to rid St. Louis of gunmen and make it a safe place to live.

When the new Chief arrived at his office it was filled with flowers. There was a large basket of American beauties from the men of his bureau and the others were from friends outside of the department. He was asked what he was going to do and he answered the above program. "It would be rash for me to say what I am going to do," he said, "but that is my aim. Gunmen will be arrested every time they are seen and when they are caught with guns on them they will be sent to the penitentiary."

"I expect to bring the detective bureau to as high a degree of efficiency as possible. I cannot say what will be done but what we want is efficiency. Whatever is necessary to obtain it will be done."

"To Get Rid of the Dead Ones."

That was as far as Chief Hoagland would go, but President Victor J. Miller of the Police Board, who is 52 years old, goes further. He believes that the vitality and energy of youth is needed in the detective bureau. To a reporter he said, "We are going to look over the bureau and pick out the good ones and get rid of the dead ones. Those fellows who have had better get some pep into their work. I have got 400 applications for jobs as detectives. We want men who will do the work. If the men we have can do it, all right. If not we will put others in who will. Hoagland is tall and slim and boyish in manner and in the intensity of his enthusiasm. He lives with his wife and two children at 4217 W. Sacramento avenue. He started in the police department as a telephone boy on April 2, 1904, when he was 16 years old. Four years later he was made a clerk and assigned to the Berillon department. He began familiarizing himself with the appearance and characteristics of crooks and after being appointed a probationary and assigned to the detective bureau on Sept. 9, 1911, he developed his memory of lawbreakers until they nicknamed him "The Eye." and it came to be a saying among thieves and other crooks: "If you can get by Hoagland you are all right."

Case of Roy Tyler. There was the case of Roy Tyler, for instance. Tyler was a bank robber and was wanted in Brooklyn for robbing a bank and killing a man in Cleveland for robbing a bank. He and another man and two women created a disturbance in Columbia, Mo., and when they left there in an automobile the St. Louis police were asked to arrest them on their arrival here. Tyler was arrested and taken to headquarters. Tyler was trying the injured dignity pose. He was Dr. Hardy, a veterinarian, and he had never been arrested before, and he was extremely indignant. He did it so well that he stood a good chance of being released.

Hoagland happened in, took a look at "Dr. Hardy" and said: "Wait a minute, hold him." He went to the record room and brought out the circulars asking for arrest of Roy Tyler, and identified him. He would have got by only for you," said Tyler. He was searched and $3400 of bank money was found sewed in his clothes. He was sent back.

Never Has Worn Uniform. Hoagland's reputation as detective spread over the country. Last year he and his partner, James Vasey, were loaned to Colorado Springs for the opening of the resort season, and the first day they picked up 17 police characters and cleaned up the place. So far this year 26 applications have been made for his services at various places of amusement to clean out police characters. In all the time that he has been in police work he has not worn a uniform.

The promotion of Vasey to be Acting Lieutenant was for the purpose of having him go along with Hoagland and co-operate with him in ridding the town of gunmen and other criminals. He will be in direct charge of cleaning them out and will have as many detectives as he needs for the purpose. As a Detective Sergeant, Hoagland has been receiving $1400 a year. After June 1 his salary, under the increase to go into effect on that date, could have been $1800. As Chief of Detectives he will be paid at the rate of $2000 a year until June 1, and after that at the rate of $2750 a year, and will have the use of an automobile and a chauffeur.

Miller struck with his work. President Miller picked Hoagland for Chief of Detectives because he had seen him work and liked the way he did it. Immediately after becoming President of the board Miller began making personal raids. Hoagland and Vasey were assigned to accompany him. Miller was immediately struck with Hoagland's initiative, energy and thoroughness and this impression grew until he concluded that Hoagland was the man to place at the head of the detective bureau.

Hoagland's father was Police Sgt. William Hoagland, who was killed by a street car in 1903. He celebrated his appointment Saturday night by going with President Miller, Chief of Police O'Brien and Vasey to 5025 Beacon street, where a still was reported to be in operation. He found a window open and climbed in and opened a door and admitted the others. In the cellar they found two Italians operating a still of 100 gallons a day capacity. They found 10 gallons of moonshine whisky, 15 barrels of mash ready for use, 20 barrels which had contained mash and 50 cans of one to five gallons capacity stacked up for filling.

where Manford's putt knocked his opponent's ball two feet nearer the hole. Jones then getting down a five-foot putt.

The American player became 2 up at the fifteenth, where he was on the green with Manford short. Jones then took the sixteenth and the match.

C. C. Aylmer of Ranleigh, who defeated Dr. Paul Hunter of Los Angeles in Saturday's team match, won his match today with R. B. Foster of Coombs Hill, 3 up and 1 to play.

Oummet did not start very promisingly against the veteran Dick, for the American pulled his tee shot into the rough, put his second into the ditch on the right and lost in five to four.

At the second hole, however, Dick missed a four-foot putt and Oummet squared the match in four to five. The third Oummet won in four to five, becoming one up. The American had hard luck at the fourth hole, where he stymied himself and, though lofting cleverly, his ball tipped the hold and he lost in four to three, becoming square again. Oummet regained his lead at the fifth, where he was well on in two, and won the hole in four to five.

Dick, by means of a good putt, halved the sixth with Oummet, and both getting down long putts at the next, the seventh was halved in three. The eighth was a bad hole for Oummet. He drove out of bounds and from his second drive had to play out of a ditch, which he did well, the ball resting two yards from the pin. Dick, however, won the hole in four to seven, squaring the match. Dick missed a putt at the ninth, which hole Oummet won in five to four.

Evans-Crowther Match. The match between "Chick" Evans and D. F. Crowther was somewhat of a procession, after opening with a half in four. WIDOW, 85, KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW

Mrs. Christine Muckermann Unconscious When Found by Stepsons.

Mrs. Christine Muckermann, 85 years old, a widow, died at 3:45 o'clock this morning from injuries suffered a few minutes before, when she fell from a second-story window of her home at 3727 North Fourteenth street. She was the second wife of the late John Muckermann, founder of the Muckermann Ice and Coal Co., whose brother, Christopher Muckermann, founded the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co.

William Muckermann, a stepson, who occupied a room adjoining that of Mrs. Muckermann, said that his stepmother was accustomed to getting out of bed at night and taking a seat in a rocking chair, as she was a light sleeper. Her eyesight had been poor in recent years. A few days ago, owing to the warm weather, her chair had been removed from one side of the bed to the other, which placed it between the bed and a front window. Muckermann believes that his stepmother, in getting up from the chair to return to bed, walked in the wrong direction. The house is a two-story building and the sills of the windows are low.

William Muckermann and his brother, Henry, heard their stepmother scream as she fell, and ran downstairs and picked her up. She was unconscious when they carried her into the house from the sidewalk. A physician was called, but she died a few minutes later from a fractured skull.

Mrs. Muckermann is survived by 50 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Fourteenth and Mallinckrodt streets. A nephew, the Rev. J. H. Muckermann, pastor of St. George's Catholic Church at Linn, Mo., will conduct the services. Mrs. Muckermann was a member of the Altar Society of Holy Trinity Church.

to six, thus becoming one up at the turn.

The homeward half of the journey provided an interesting contest. At the tenth, Oummet from the tee found his ball jammed up against the railings on this hole and had to play left-handed. He took four to reach the green, while Dick had a certain four for the hole and squared the match. Oummet, however, became one up again at the eleventh, which he won with a three, and became two up at the thirteenth, where Dick was bunkered.

On the fourteenth Dick was in trouble all the way, requiring five to reach the green, while Oummet, belted down in four, became three up. The fifteenth was halved in four, and at the sixteenth Dick missed a short putt which enabled Oummet to secure the match by three up and two to play.

In the Hunt-Crichton match, Hunt was outdriving his opponent by 30 to 40 yards but it was an extremely close match. They were level at the turn and there was never a margin of two holes between them until the sixteenth, where Hunt put his 70-yard approach an inch from the pin and became dormie 2. Then at the seventeenth Crichton was short and missed a putt, Hunt winning. They played out the last hole with approximate scores of 78 for Hunt and 80 for Crichton.

LAW REGULATING DANCE HALLS NOW IN EFFECT

Ordinance Provides System of Licensing and Control by Welfare Director.

The new dance hall ordinance, placing under licensed control of the city all dance halls which are open to the public on an admission charge, became effective yesterday. Under it the halls will be regulated under direction of the Department of Public Welfare.

Passage of the ordinance resulted from the investigation of the "crime wave" several months ago by the Board of Aldermen, policemen and after an examination by the Director of Public Welfare as to the character of the place. The applicant must have a petition signed by a majority of the property owners within 400 feet of the hall.

The ordinance provides that a license fee shall be paid to the city, the amount being $30 a year for halls having a dancing space of less than 1500 square feet, $50 for those having a space of from 1500 to 5000 square feet, and $150 for those having a larger floor space.

Requirements for License. Licenses will be issued after the proprietor obtains from the Director of Public Safety a certificate for the building in which his hall is, and after an examination by the Director of Public Welfare as to the character of the place. The applicant must have a petition signed by a majority of the property owners within 400 feet of the hall.

The ordinance requires that dance halls shall close at 1 a. m., except when operated on special permits issued by the Director of Public Welfare for special occasions, such as New Year's eve and other holidays.

No person under 17 years of age is to be permitted to attend any dance hall after 8 p. m. unless accompanied by parent or guardian, or by an adult with a permit from the parent or guardian. False representation as to age by a minor or by any person that he is a minor's parent or guardian is made a misdemeanor. Any proprietor of a dance hall who permits disorderly persons, or criminals, or gamblers, or vulgar language, the ordinance provides, shall lose his license and also shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Violations of any of the provisions of the ordinance are made punishable by a fine of from $25 to $500.

Estimate of Fees to City. Director of Public Welfare, Schmitt said he had been informed the city would receive between $25,000 and $30,000 a year from dance hall licenses, and that he believed the money should go into a special fund for recreation purposes, such as municipal swimming pools. Controller Noy said the receipts this year would be light, and that the money will have to go into the general fund of the city to be appropriated in the regular way, as the city had no special funds.

A long putt, won the fourth hole in three to four, thus becoming two up. The American increased his lead at the seventh, which he took in three to four. Crowther being short with his approach. Two halves following this, Evans made the turn three up, having gone out in 25 to his opponent's 33.

On the homeward journey Crowther's putting fell off and Evans won without being required to do anything brilliant.

Armour Wins a Match. Among the English players, T. D. Armour, Lothianburn, defeated H. R. Orr of St. Nicolas, 4 up and 2 to play.

R. F. Burton of Mid-Surrey beat W. L. Thompson, an American, 3 up and 1 to play. Thompson was not on the W. C. Fownes team.

7 BALLOONS DOWN, 2 SAILING EASTWARD

Bernard von Hoffman, Piloting "Riverview Club of St. Louis," Lands in Tennessee.

By the Associated Press. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 23.—Seven of the 9 balloons which started from this place late Saturday in the national elimination contest are down. The others are believed by officials of the Aero Club of America and local forecasters to be somewhere over Ohio today with their course probably eastward, which would take them over Pennsylvania and New York.

The "Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis," piloted by E. Honeywell and J. M. O'Reilly, was forced to land 10 miles from Nashville at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The "Riverview Club of St. Louis," piloted by Bernard von Hoffman, landed five miles north of Carthage, Tenn., at 6:30 this morning, after covering about 900 miles.

Other balloons down are "Army No. 1," which landed in a rainstorm at 3:10 p. m. yesterday near Columbia, Tenn.; the "City of Akron," and the "City of Birmingham," the latter also having been forced down yesterday near Nashville, Tenn.

Weather forecasters said that the banks of "high" pressure meeting a "low" in the Mississippi Valley region created small centers of disturbances which probably were responsible for the forced landings.

Ralph Upton, winner of the 1913 national contest, was forced to land at "Birmingham Semi-Centennial" at Stuart, Va., at 7:40 this morning.

GERMAN TROOPS DRIVE POLISH IRREGULARS IN SILESIA BACK 5 MILES

is now just as powerless to intervene. Apparently the Germans have a regular army reserves at their disposal.

Notes Consolidate Positions. The Polish insurgents, according to the dispatch, have been steadily consolidating their position and extending their control over the industrial districts of Silesia.

They are reported to have succeeded in starting work again in mines, foundries and factories, and now are squeezing the allied authorities out of the towns they still occupy in order to complete their hold on the railways between Katowice and Gliwice. Every sort of pressure is being employed to compel the surrender of these two important towns. No food is being allowed to enter them, but as this has not proved effective, the water and electricity supplies of Katowice have been cut off.

Inhabitants of Beuthen and Katowice have approached their local district controllers, according to correspondents, and have asked them to make terms with the insurgents, declaring they are tired of waiting for the allies to do something and are without confidence in the Inter-Allied Commission's power to restore order.

The correspondent declares that, while the Poles are masters in the industrial districts, the Germans exercise control over the northern and western parts of the plebiscite area.

"These are the prime guarantees of efficiency and fair dealing in private business. They do not apply to Government; and therefore Government should be placed, so far as possible, under a strict watch of the methods which are applied in private business."

"Government, to a greater extent now than ever before, is under obligation to give the greatest service for the fewest possible cost. But it is for certain obvious reasons difficult to do this because Government is not under the necessity to earn profits, nor to obey laws which regulate competition."

"The present Congress has already provided for a joint committee on the reorganization of the administrative branch of the Government. A representative of the executive will serve with this committee, so that there is now in progress a thorough study of the whole problem. The task will require some time, and ultimate results must wait it. More, it will demand a resolute courage to effect the abolition of the useless and the co-ordination of the useful."

"But meanwhile we shall, I trust, have a budget system in operation under the law, before the opening of the new fiscal year."

"Establishment of a budget system is the foundation on which reorganization must be based. It is hardly conceivable, indeed, that a proper budget system could be established and carried on for any considerable time, without forcing attention to the evils and effecting the reform of many deficiencies in the present system. But the budget program will not do everything. There must still be much and continuing effort to keep expenses down to insure full value for every dollar of the taxpayers' money the Government spends."

"Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that eternal vigil is the price of economy and efficiency. It requires persistent, determined, stony-hearted devotion to the public interest. There must be utter sac-

JOBHOLDERS 'ONLY NEEDING MONEY TO GO,' HARDING SAYS

"Persistent, Stony-Hearted Devotion to Public Interest Necessary to Get on Sound Basis," He Tells Political Science Academy.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 23.—The administration's purpose to place the Federal Government on a sound business basis, even at the cost of offending "a certain class of politicians," was reaffirmed by President Harding today in an address here at a luncheon of the Academy of Political Science.

The task, the President declared, already had shown that to be successfully completed it would require "persistent, determined, stony-hearted devotion to the public interest" without a trace of sympathy for the jobholder whose only excuse for drawing a salary is that he needs the money.

Loss of the sort of sort of money to the administration, Harding said, was certain to result, though it might be compensated in the long run by a realization of the good accomplished for the general public.

Recapitulating the work already done by the reorganization commission created by Congress and by executive orders of the administration, the President said considerable progress was promised for the immediate future. He predicted that the reorganization task would be a long one, however, and invited public suggestions as to ways and means.

CATHOLIC WOMEN DEBATE MODERN DANCE AND STYLES

Members of Missouri Union, in Convention at Holy Trinity Church, Also Condemn the Movies.

SAY RACE SUICIDE DEGRADES MARRIAGE

"New Paganism" Declared to Be Developing to Point Where It Is a Serious Menace.

Resolutions were adopted today by the Women's Catholic League, the women's branch of the Catholic Union of Missouri, which is holding its annual convention at the Holy Trinity Church, Fourteenth and Mallinckrodt streets, denouncing motion picture shows as at present conducted, modern dances, modern styles for women, and race suicide. They also declared a "new paganism" was developing.

"The times are filled with a presentiment of coming evil," the resolutions recited. "Humanity has turned away from God. A new paganism is making tremendous progress on all sides, threatening to undermine and lay waste Christian civilization, customs and traditions in church, state and family."

"Catholic women and mothers we condemn most emphatically the styles prevalent among the members of our sex, because:

"First, they are incompatible with Catholic principles applied to morality."

"Second, they are an insult to decency and the moral sense of every conscientious woman."

"Smother Sense of Shame." "Third, they smother in children and growing youth the sense of shame which we regard as the natural protection against dangers to immorality."

"Fourth, they tempt man to lower his estimate of womanly dignity, and to more dissolute life and even to immorality."

"We also deem it our duty to condemn the general prevailing dances, immoral in themselves and seducing to immorality. Both styles and dances are manifest proof of the moral retrogression of our people."

"There is no doubt the so-called moving picture shows must be regarded as one of the principal causes of the prevalent demoralization of youth, the increasing neglect, coarseness and rudeness; and it is the plain truth that the movies are a terrible and increasing menace to young people."

"Denies Life to the Child."

"The Christian marriage has been degraded in the eyes of the people to a vulgar, worldly thing. As a result, we see a frightful destruction of marriage and terrible demoralization of married life. The one practically unknown crime (race suicide) against God's holy law has come to be at home among our people; the picture of children once charged with something sacred, a street corner where the people have become a generation which denies life to the child, robs the child of life. Marriage is growing to be legalized prostitution and the dignity of motherhood is ridiculed and despised."

The business session of the convention of the Catholic Union opened this morning. Reports of officers, including that of Michael Deck, the president, were received. In his report Deck urged that the union should arrange to instruct women in exercising the right of suffrage, which he declared to be an obligation of the Christian women.

Mass meetings this afternoon and tonight were announced. The Rev. Albert Muntz of St. Louis University and August F. Brockland, Assistant Director of the Central Bureau of the Union, will speak at the afternoon meeting, and former Congressman Igoe, president of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, and the Rev. T. H. Winklemann will speak at the evening meeting. The convention will close tomorrow.

Resolution Opposes Dyott as Prosecutor in Volstead Law Cases.

The appointment of John C. Dyott of Willow Springs as Special Assistant Attorney-General in charge of Volstead law prosecutions in St. Louis, was opposed in a resolution adopted yesterday. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Attorney-General Daugherty and Senator Spencer.

Opposition of the Catholic organization was based upon a statement alleged to have been made by Dyott in debate in the Missouri House of Representatives two years ago, Dyott being the representative of Howell County. He was quoted by the Catholic organization as having said:

"If I had my way, there would not be a parochial and private sectarian school in the elementary grades within the confines of the United States."

Dyott, over the telephone from his home today, gave the following explanation:

"There was under consideration a bill prohibiting aliens from teaching in any schools in Missouri. This would have barred nearly all the teachers of certain schools, a Catholic school in Kansas City and several in St. Louis, I think."

"I did not believe it fair to summarily close these schools, and offered an amendment giving teachers a year in which to start citizenship proceedings. I was accused of 'plugging' for some private school. I re-drive to greet the nation's chief executive.

At the dock were hundreds of bluejackets and police surrounding the motor cars assembled there for the party.

President and Mrs. Harding were met at the pier by Col. F. W. Claiborn, national commander of the American Legion. The party motored through the winding roads of Central Park, down Fifth avenue, on which all traffic was halted, and across Twenty-fourth street to the Hudson River, where they crossed on a ferryboat to attend the ceremony in Hoboken.

Boys' Band to Serenade Him. After the troop review he will return to the Hotel Commodore to be serenaded by a boys' band of 500 pieces.

A reception will be held at the hotel between 7 and 8 o'clock, and then he will deliver his main address at a banquet celebrating the 125th anniversary of the New York Commercial.

Address in Hoboken. In his Hoboken address, President Harding said:

"There grows on me the realization of the unusual character of this occasion. Our Republic has been at war before; it has asked and received the supreme sacrifices of its sons and daughters, and faith in America has been justified. Many sons and daughters made the supreme offering and went to hallowed graves as the nation's defenders. But we never before sent so many to battle under the flag on foreign lands, never before was there the impressive spectacle of thousands of dead returned to find eternal resting places in the beloved homeland. The incident is without parallel in history that I know."

"These dead know nothing of our ceremony today. They sense nothing of the sentiment or the tenderness which brings their wasted bodies to the homeland for burial, close to kin and friends and cherished associations. These poor bodies are but the clay tenements once possessed of souls which flamed in patriotic devotion, lighted new hopes on the battle grounds of civilization, and in their sacrifices sped on to accuse autocracy before the court of eternal justice."

"We are not met for them, though we love and honor and speak a grateful tribute. It would be futile to speak to those who do not hear, or to sorrow for those who cannot sense it, or to exalt those who cannot know. But we can speak for country, we can reach those who sorrow and sacrifice through their service, who suffered through their giving, who glory with the republic through their heroic achievements, who rejoice in the civilization their heroism preserved."

"Every funeral, every memorial, every tribute to the living—all offering in compensation of sorrow. When the light of light goes out there is a new radiance in eternity, and somehow the glow of it relieves the darkness which is left behind.

"Never a death but somewhere a new life, never a sacrifice but somewhere an atonement, never a service but somewhere and somehow an achievement. These had served, which is the supreme inspiring in living. They have earned everlasting gratitude, which is the supreme solace in dying."

"No one may measure the vast and various affections and sorrows centering in this priceless cargo of bodies—one living, fighting for, and finally dying for the republic. One's words fail, his understanding is halted, his emotions are stirred beyond control when contemplating these thousands of beloved dead. I find a hundred thousand sorrows touching my heart, and there is ringing in my ears, like an admonition eternal, an insistent call—it must not be again. It must not be again." God grant that it will not be, and let a practical people join in co-operation with God to the end that it shall not be.

"I would not wish a nation for which men are not willing to fight, and, if need be, to die, but I do wish for a nation where it is not necessary to ask for that sacrifice; I do not pretend that millennial days have come, but I can believe in the possibility of a nation being so righteous as never to make a war of conquest, and a nation so powerful in righteousness that none will dare invoke her wrath. I wish for such an America."

"These heroes were sacrificed in the supreme conflict of all human history. They saw democracy challenged and defended it. They saw America affronted and rescued it. They saw our nation's rights imperiled and stamped those rights with a new sanctity and renewed security."

"They gave all which men and women can give. We shall give our most and best if we make certain that they did not die in vain. We shall not forget, no matter whether they lie amid the sweetness and the bloom of the homeland or sleep in the soil they crimsoned. Our mindfulness, our gratitude, our reverence shall be in the preserved republic and the maintained liberties and the supreme justice for which they died."

In placing the wreath on the casket, the President said:

"In the name of the republic I bestow this tribute on the casket of the first soldier who perished on the soil of the enemy. This opportunity is not chosen to express the suggestion of hatred in the American heart, for there is no hatred in the American heart, but I have chosen it because I am offering the tribute to one returned whose death on enemy soil marked the day when our civilization went face forward and the assault on our present day civilization knew it had failed. May 24, 1918, is the date on which this soldier was killed, and the name is that of Joseph W. Geyton, Company I, of the 126th Infantry, a resident patriot and hero of the State of Michigan of the United States of America."

"We are not met for them, though we love and honor and speak a grateful tribute. It would be futile to speak to those who do not hear, or to sorrow for those who cannot sense it, or to exalt those who cannot know. But we can speak for country, we can reach those who sorrow and sacrifice through their service, who suffered through their giving, who glory with the republic through their heroic achievements, who rejoice in the civilization their heroism preserved."

EAST SIDE GIRL WINS $1000 BEAUTY PRIZE

Miss Edith Ray, Cigar Clerk, Is Now a Contestant in $10,000 Competition.

Business was brisk today at the cigar stand in the lobby of the Arcade Building, East St. Louis—brisker than it had been for months. A Post-Dispatch reporter bent on talking with Miss Edith Ray, the cigar clerk, concerning the $1000 prize which she won last week in a newspaper beauty contest embracing all of Illinois outside of Chicago, had to shoulder a way through lawyers, accountants and others who had been seized with a sudden desire for tobacco. The fragrance of roses mingled with the aroma of Havana leaf.

Hazel eyes and a wide friendly mouth smiled across the counter at the press of customers. The dice box was rattled with a deft hand for the office dwellers of the Arcade prefer to get their smokes the hard way.

"That's one on me; my, but you're lucky today!" exclaimed the friendly mouth. The reporter suggested that Miss Ray was not exactly bowed down by misfortune herself.

Admits She Was Surprised. "Nobody was more surprised than me," was the cheerful comment, as the dice continued to roll on the counter pad. There was a delicate hint as to the ultimate disposal of the thousand.

"My parents come first," Miss Ray declared. "When they get what they want, I'll see about myself. I want to finish my piano education and my business course."

The Chicago Tribune, which conducted the contest, explained yesterday, in announcing the result, that Miss Ray was chosen as the recipient of the first prize "for her charming expression of youth and eyes, her dignified young womanhood and a warmth of character that compels admiration." The judges were three artists, Pauline Palmer, Albin Polasek and J. Wellington Reynolds. The award was made tentatively upon her photograph, and later verified and supplemented by a personal appearance before the jury.

Miss Ray is fair, plump and 5 feet 6, with medium brown hair. For many years the Arcade Building lobby has been a common ground for politicians, lawyers and business men, so that the cigar lady is particularly well known to them. Undoubtedly, her outstanding trait is her good humor, a fact well established during her three years of employment there.

Now Contestant for $10,000. By the award, she automatically becomes a contestant for the $10,000 prize offered by the newspaper for the competition between the winners of 60 sectional contests, of which she is one.

The dice rattled and rolled. "That's two on you," said the friendly voice. "Oh, well, we can't be lucky all the time. Just a minute—it's the doctor's turn next. Roll them out, doctor, you look 'right' today."

Buenos Aires Port Strike Off. By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, May 23.—The port zone, which has been closed since late in March by the boycott of the port laborers' union, was reopened today. The union laborers returned to work, but only 10 of the huge fleet of tied-up ships accepted their services. Among these was the United States Shipping Board steamer Martha Washington, which is operated by the Munson Line.

City Wagons Begin Collecting Rubbish in Clean-Up Drive. City wagons today began collecting rubbish piles assembled by householders last week in the general clean-up and paint-up campaign carried on by civic, industrial and commercial organizations in an effort to make St. Louis a "spotless town."

The Clean-Up Committee purposes to lead the city of all unsightly rubbish heaps and spots which might be a breeding place for flies or disease germs. All the wagons available in the Street Department have been put into service and will work eastward from the western boundary of the city.

The collection this year will be unusually heavy and probably will require two weeks' work. Clinton B. Fisk, Director of Streets and Sewers, who has just completed a survey of the city, says:

MAN WHO KILLED BROTHER-IN-LAW HELD

Clerk Testifies He Prayed for Guidance, Then Shot "Quarrelsome" Relative.

Thomas E. Maguire, a railroad clerk, was ordered held today by a coroner's jury for the death of his brother-in-law, Edward Banks, a car repairer, who was shot by Maguire in the house occupied by them at 4361 Page boulevard Saturday night. Maguire admitted the shooting, testifying that he prayed for guidance and was directed to kill Banks.

Maguire, although advised he need make no statement at the inquest, insisted upon testifying. He said that Banks and his wife and the Maguire family of six members occupied the one house, but lived separately.

Banks, he testified, was of a quarrelsome disposition, and was abusive to his wife. His 16-year-old sister, Marie, told him Friday that Banks had cursed Mrs. Banks and that he used "terrible language."

"Saturday night I told him he must stop using such language," Maguire testified. "He told me to go to hell. I got a revolver and went into the bathroom and prayed."

"A voice I knew to be the voice of God said to me: 'You are the appointed one.' I then walked into the room where Banks was lying on a couch and shot him. He was 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighed over 200 pounds. I am of slight build and I knew I would stand no chance with him in a fight."

Other members of the family testified that Banks was quarrelsome. Banks was shot at 6 p. m. Saturday and died at the city hospital at 1:40 a. m. Sunday.

10,783 SEALSKINS ARE SOLD IN TWO HOURS FOR $368,505

Nearly 10,800 sealskins were sold in two hours this morning at the auction in the International Fur Exchange Building, Fourth and Market streets. The sale, conducted by the Foulke Fur Co., began at 10 o'clock and ended at noon, with the announcement that the entire stock on hand had been sold.

The total of the bids was announced as being $368,505, of which all but $730 is for the account of the United States Government, representing the return of the Alaska seal industry.

The prices averaged $35.75 a skin, as compared with $35.20 in a similar sale last February, and $141 at the sale of February, 1920, which was at the time of peak prices.

Will Have Photograph. The district station must at once notify Walton, who will go to the scene or send one of his men there. The homicide bureau will have a photographer regularly employed as a member of the Police Department and always subject to call. He will go to the murder scene and make photographs of the surroundings and of any articles which may serve as clues.

The coroner will be asked to consent to leaving the body at the scene of a murder until it is removed by order of Walton or one of his men. This, it is believed, will enable the detectives to get a better start than under the present system of removing the body to the morgue and gathering up the property and effects before detectives begin their investigations.

38 Unsolved Murders. Walton will have general supervision of the investigation of every murder case and can commandeer men from the districts to aid him. District policemen, even though not specially assigned to work under Walton, will be expected to use every effort to gather information on murders.

Falls From Train Into Creek. David Scobbe, choir leader of the First Baptist Church in Belleville, fell 25 feet from a moving Illinois Central train while it was crossing a trestle near Belleville yesterday, and landed in a small creek near the Radium mine. He is in St. Elizabeth's Hospital suffering from a fracture of the right ankle and a scalp wound.

How New Homicide Squad Will Operate in Solving Murder Mysteries

Bureau With a Chief and at Least Six Detectives Contemplated to Investigate Killings Thoroughly.

The establishment of a homicide squad which eventually will be developed into a homicide bureau devoted solely to the solving of murder mysteries and the tracking down of murderers is regarded as one of the most important innovations made by the Police Board in its current reorganization of the department. There are similar bureaus in New York City, Detroit, Boston, Buffalo and San Francisco.

The squad will be under the direction of Acting Lieut. William Walton, who was promoted from Detective Sergeant to be Acting Lieutenant last Saturday. Walton has been in charge of the "night hawk" squad of 8 detectives assigned to ride the streets in automobiles at night and run down automobile thieves. Temporarily he will continue to direct this squad, but will be relieved of that duty if all of his time is required for directing murder investigations.

To Have Six Detectives. Detectives Ising and Girard have been assigned to the homicide squad and four other detectives not yet selected will be added to it. Since his promotion Walton has been placed in possession of a new automobile for use in his work.

Walton, Chief of Police O'Brien today conferred as to the plans for the operation of the homicide squad and its development into a bureau.

It was decided that Walton should have his office at police headquarters and should be subject to call at his home at any time. Under the plan, as outlined after the conference, a policeman who reports a murder must telephone the known facts to his district station as quickly as possible and remain on guard at the scene of the murder until relieved by Walton or one of his squad. The policeman must permit no one to approach the body or touch anything which might be a clue.

Will Have Photograph. The district station must at once notify Walton, who will go to the scene or send one of his men there. The homicide bureau will have a photographer regularly employed as a member of the Police Department and always subject to call. CHILDREN TO GIVE PLAY FOR MILK FUND BENEFIT

"The Prince and the Pixies" Will Be Presented Friday on Lawn at 5554 Cabanne.

One of the first benefits of the season for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund will be given at 7 o'clock Friday evening on the lawn at 5554 Cabanne avenue. It will be a play entitled "The Prince and the Pixies," and the following children will take part: Mary Agnes Hawkins, Margaret and Catherine Giger, Margaret Gardner, Isabel Kirkpatrick, Florence Stoeffer, Beatrice Rose and Virginia Block. The players are being coached by Mrs. Hawkins.

The "Kute Kiddies" of Marquette Hall, under the direction of Mary Florence Shea, will present a miscellaneous program May 31, the proceeds to be given to the fund for the babies.

The St. Louis Society, Children of the American revolution, will give a carnival and lawn fete June 4, from 4 to 10 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. William M. Penniman, 5933 West Cabanne place. The Milk and Ice Fund and the Day Nursery of the Church of the Holy Communion, 2800 Washington avenue, will be the joint beneficiaries.

Members of the Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority, Theta Chapter, are planning a musical program to be given at the Artists' Guild June 3, for the benefit of the babies, and Rose Schumaker, 4212 Page boulevard, is coaching players who will present a show on June 11.

A subhead in yesterday's Milk and Ice Fund article, which stated that "No Cash Contributions Are Asked For" was erroneous, as the content of the paragraph which followed showed. As has been repeatedly said in other campaigns for the babies, the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund has not solicitors of cash contributions, and cash donations, to be properly made, should be sent directly to the fund in care of the cashier of the Post-Dispatch.

'SERVANT IN THE HOUSE' A FINE FILM DRAMA

Six-Reel Mack Sennett Comedy and Mary Pickford Picture
Also on Local Bills.

A fine and adequate film representation of that remarkable play, "The Servant in the House," opened for a week's run at the Strand Theater yesterday. Few recent film offerings have had the high quality, excellent interpretation and sustained interest of this screen version of Charles Rann Kennedy's drama. The nature of the subject, based on that dream of the ages—Christ's return to earth—called for the utmost reverence in its treatment. This has been achieved in masterful style. The character of the servant as portrayed by Jean Gerrard is a masterpiece in its suggestion of human compassion and divinity sitting in judgment on the deeds of men. The difficult role of Robert Smith, drain man, is played with rare skill by Jack Curtis. Edward Peil portrays the drain man's curate brother, Harvey Clark is the Bishop and Claire Anderson has the role of the drain man's ill-fated wife. The settings and photography are beautiful. Several of the scenes were made in the famous Busch gardens at Pasadena, Cal., formerly the property of the late Adolphus Busch of St. Louis.

Amusing Turpin Film.
"A Small Town Idol," which opened yesterday at the Missouri Theater, is verily a comedy de luxe. It is a circus, a melodrama and a pageant rolled into one. It is, in short, a successful attempt by Mack Sennett to produce a six-reel comedy that doesn't wear itself out before the end.

A successful attempt, but Sennett evidently had realized the heroic character of such an undertaking, for to insure the result he not only drafted Ben Turpin, Marie Prevost, Phyllis Haver, Charlie Murray and Al Crook—an extraordinary array of comedy stars, but he staged some spectacles that one would expect in "The Queen of Sheba" rather than in a Ben Turpin comedy. Few serious pictures have afforded such lavish sets as those in the "New Year's Eve in Babylon" scenes.

The picture probably more nearly approaches a plot than any previous Turpin film. It is based on the adventures of a country youth (if Turpin can be accepted as one) who is robbed of his sweetheart and escorted out of town by a vigilance committee, through the intrigue of a rival. He comes back several years later as a two-gun movie hero, rich and famous, and what he doesn't get in the way of satisfaction isn't worth having, although he narrowly escapes lynching as a result of a last desperate endeavor of his rival to dispose of him.

Doubtless there will be some complaint concerning the scantiness of clothing in the dancing scenes, but, on the other hand, the dancing itself is of the highest artistic merit, and would be worthy of praise in any company.

Mary Pickford in "Cute" Part.
Mary Pickford, who seems to have the gift of being eternally "cute," has a role well suited to her talents in "Through the Back Door," the feature offering at the New Grand Central and West End Lyric. This picture will prove most entertaining to those whose admiration for the star overshadows all other considerations. In spots it is somewhat reminiscent of both "Daddy Longlegs" and "Follies."

Miss Pickford has the role of Jeanne Bodamere, who is left in the care of a nurse in Belgium when her mother marries a second time. This is in Ostend, in 1903. Five years later the mother returns for the child. The nurse has become so attached to Jeanne that rather than part with her she tells the mother the child has died. The complications come when the world war breaks out and the nurse, fearing for Jeanne's safety, sends her to her mother in the United States.

Jeanne finds it extremely difficult to establish the fact that she is still alive and an odd chain of circumstances makes it necessary for her to work as a servant in her mother's home for a time before she can establish her identity. This gives her an abundant opportunity to introduce humor and pathos into a trying situation in the approved Pickford style.

Louise Glaum in Detective Film.
A highly wrought mystery story which keeps the spectators guessing is "I Am Gully," the week's principal attraction at the Capitol Theater. There is an all-star cast with Louise Glaum, Mahlon Hamilton, Joseph Kilgour, Ruth Stonehouse and Roy Cooper in leading roles. The heroine is a show girl who marries with the purpose of "settling down," but finds domestic life so uninteresting that in the absence of her husband she decided to take one more glimpse at the bright lights.

This leads to a thrilling adventure in which a man is killed. She believes she has done the killing. Her husband also believes it. He is a lawyer and he undertakes the defense of a man who has been accused of the murder. Suspicion in turn falls on several persons and it is not until near the final fade-out that the secret is divulged. Those who like detective stories and crime mysteries will enjoy this one.

At Other Film Houses.
Constance Binney in "The Magic Cup" is the feature for a four-day run at the Delmonte. The Royal's bill is "The Faith Healer," with Milton Sills and Ann Forrest in leading roles. Doradina, a famous dancer, has the leading role in "Passion Fruit" at the Central.

WORRY AND HOW TO CURE IT DISCUSSED BY MINISTER

Worry and how to cure it was talked about by the Rev. Dr. J. O. Reavis of Columbia, S. C., associate field and foreign secretary in the Southern Presbyterian Church and one of the commissioners to the General Assembly, at the First Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Worry, hurry and debt, he said, robbed many a Christian of the peace of God.

The cure which he suggested from the Bible was three-fold. First, be careful for nothing; second, be prayerful for everything; third, be thankful in everything. "Be thankful," he said "for what he have had and what remains. Have you lost loved ones? Be thankful that they were spared as long as they were. Have you lost money? Be thankful you ever had it at all. If you were rich for one day you are ahead of a lot of people. Be thankful for the mercy that is at the heart of every trial."

"Pie—Oh Boy!"

BOYS will be boys, and they'll continue to like pie—especially if it's baked with Valier's Enterprise Flour. You can't blame them— piping hot, golden-crust and seasoned to a turn—m-m-yum!—who would wait 'till supper time!

Dad likes that kind of pie, too. So does the rest of the family. And it's a pleasure to bake them with Valier's Enterprise Flour. It produces the same fine baking week after week and month after month for its quality never varies.

You won't have needless, costly failures with Enterprise. That's one reason why it's so economical. Another is that Enterprise goes further. Its strength is concentrated. Valier's Enterprise Flour is only the white centers of the very choicest hard winter wheat. It's like cream skimmed from rich, Jersey milk—all quality.

SEVEN HURT AS AUTO OVERTURNS AT CURB

Man and Family Injured When Machine Swerves—Motor Cyclist Suffers Fall.

Seven persons were injured when an automobile driven by Tony Lombardo, 39 years old, of 907 Franklin avenue, swerved into the curbing at Leffingwell and Washington avenues at 11:55 o'clock last night and overturned.

The injured were Lombardo, his wife, Angelina, 37; their two children, Frank, 5 years old, and Michael, 4; Christina Anello, 15, sister of Mrs. Lombardo; Josie Papia, 14, and Lazarus Papia, 9, 1101 North Seventh street. All suffered scalp wounds, cuts and bruises with the exception of Josie Papia, who was said to be hurt internally. Lombardo said he lost control of the automobile when dodging another machine.

Arthur Remstrom, 29, of 8025 Van Buren avenue, suffered concussion of the brain, scalp wounds and cuts when thrown from his motor cycle in collision with an automobile on the Lemay Ferry road, near Pauly avenue.

Mrs. Relela Drogan of Madison, Ill., was cut and bruised when an automobile driven by her husband, Anton, was struck by a McKinley car at Ninth and Salisbury streets.

Opal Nichols, 7, of 707A Mound street, suffered cuts and bruises when knocked down by an automobile of Joseph Boggio, 5143 Shaw avenue, in front of 1737 North Ninth street. Police reported the child ran into the street in front of the automobile.

Five young men who were seriously injured early Sunday morning when their automobile ran into a northbound Broadway car at Pope avenue were reported at the city hospital this morning to be improving. The injured are: George Kloes, 5353 Union avenue, internal injuries; Edward Wippen, 5229A Blair avenue, broken left shoulder blade and broken left leg; Edward Meyerhoff, 5210 Condie street, injuries to the skull; Chester Delgman, Twentieth and Hebert street, lacerations and skull injuries, and Frank Leusbrock, 5222 Emily avenue, bruises and head injuries. All except Wippen were unconscious when they reached the city hospital. Wippen said Kloes was driving the automobile south on Broadway from Baden when it was crowded away from the curb by another machine and that Kloes became excited and accelerated the speed of the machine and crashed into the northbound street car.

The Coal Car Problem

THE most serious factor in the coal situation each Fall is the limited coal car facilities. It is physically impossible for the railroads, with available equipment, to haul during the seven months of Fall and Winter as much coal as is required during these months.

When coal consumers defer coal buying until Fall, they contribute to their own hardship. The coal cars should be kept busy throughout the year if the Fall jam is to be avoided.

THREE MEN IN AUTO ROB FILLING STATION

Clerk Forced to Turn Out Lights
—$129 Taken From Safe and Cash Register.

Three men drove up in an automobile to the Standard Oil filling station at 5030 West Florissant avenue at 10 o'clock last night. One went in. He wore a mask and carried a revolver. "Turn out the lights," he said to Charles E. Snell, the clerk. It was done. A second man came in and asked Snell where he kept "the coin."

There was not enough speed to satisfy the third man, who remained in the machine. "Hurry up in there, hurry up," he called. While the first man kept Snell covered, the second took $23.28 from the register, between $20 and $25 from the safe and a check for $18. The man outside continued to urge haste and the two ran out and jumped into the machine and drove away.

George W. Welch of 736 Westgate avenue was sitting in his automobile opposite Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park at 9 p. m. when a man suddenly appeared on each side of the machine, each with a revolver in hand. They made him get out and took from him three railroad passes and $21. One of them climbed into the car and took his place at the wheel. "Oh, gee," he said, "I can run this car." "All right, get her started," said the other. He got it started and they drove away. The car was found abandoned at 1 a. m.
at the Vandeventer avenue entrance to Fairground Park.

Eight or nine men went to the home of Albert Vohwinkel, 2025 Magazine street, at 9:30 p. m. and assaulted Henry Koessel, 29 years old, of 2511 Benton street, and August Respig, 29, of 3651 Cass avenue.
Koessel said he was robbed of $9 and a watch. Respig said he was robbed of $7 and a watch. Respig was taken to the city hospital.

Walter Grotty, 5149A Cates avenue, told the police that he was held up at 11:45 p. m. near his home by two men, who searched him and found nothing. He had $5.80 in his right hip pocket, but they missed that.

Man Robbed and Knocked Down.
Joseph Dunbar, 25, of 2232 Madison street, was held up at 2:15 a.
m. on High street near Franklin avenue, by a negro and robbed of $15, after which he was knocked down and kicked.

William Carter, a negro, was held up by two white men as he was entering his home at 1433 North Vandeventer avenue at 9:30 p. m. They made him enter the house, bound his hands and feet with a sheet and took $55 and a watch.

Reuben S. Sadler arrived here last night from Lexington, Ky., and on a street car was robbed of his pocketbook containing $500 in savings stamps and a certificate of deposit in a postoffice bank for $300.

The office of the Norwine Coffee Co., 311 North Seventh street, was entered over Sunday and the combinations were knocked from two safes.
They contained nothing but papers, which were strewn about the place.

Frank H. Wahlig, a grocer of 1209
South Seventh street, took his family to the Meramec yesterday. When they returned at 8 p. m. they found that $29 had been taken from the register in the grocery and $125 worth of jewelry from the rooms upstairs.

Abraham Levin, proprietor of a poultry stand at Biddle Market, walked by at 6 p. m. to see if everything was all right. Something seemed to be wrong. Levin thought he saw a man behind the counter.

He hunted up a policeman. That gave the intruder all the time that he wanted. When Levin and the policeman returned, 30 live chickens and a cage of eggs had disappeared.

For Rough, Freckled or Blotchy Complexions

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing at this season, may readily be gotten rid of. Ordinary mercerized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely seals off the discolored surface skin. Get an ounce of the way at any drug store. There's no more effective way of banishing freekles or other cutaneous defects. Little process doesn't even temporarily mar
the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand-new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.
Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered salicylic acid, one ounce, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel.
Rubbing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.

GIRL WOUNDED WHEN ON OUTING

Virginia Sherwood, 7 years old, of 5232 Plover avenue, was shot in the neck by Harvey Schaber of the same address, while on an outing yesterday at Woodlawn, St. Louis County. At the city hospital doctors said her condition was serious.

Schaber and the child's father, George Sherwood, told the police Schaber was shooting a .22-caliber rifle, aiming at a tin can, when the child ran into the line of fire. Both said the shooting was accidental.

FORTUNE TELLER'S HUSBAND TO BE SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Joseph Pelinski, Wanted in Illinois on Conviction for Swindling, Arrested in Wellston.

Joseph Pelinski, 61 years old, who was sentenced to an indeterminate term of one to 10 years in the Illinois penitentiary last March for swindling Weert Bauer of Alton, a retired farmer and Civil War veteran, out of $14,000, was arrested yesterday at the home of his wife, a fortune teller, at 6318 Wellsmar avenue, Wellston. He had been out on an appeal bond. He will be taken to the Southern Illinois Penitentiary today or tomorrow.

Pelinski was convicted of the charge 18 months ago, but on appeal to the Supreme Court a new trial was ordered, which again resulted in conviction. Pelinski prepared to appeal again and was released on bond, but failed to perfect the appeal. Madison County (Ill.) authorities have been looking for him for 10 days. He explained he had no intention to evade them, but had remained home to care for his wife, who has been ill.

It was charged that Pelinski represented to Bauer that a pot of gold was buried on Bauer's farm, which "Madame" Pelinski, his wife, could locate. Bauer, who is 78 years old, put up the $14,000 to help in the search. Pelinski's bond of $6500 was forfeited several days ago.

GOMPERS PLANS 'INTENSIVE' DRIVE TO ORGANIZE WORKERS

President of A. F. L. Announces Intention of Campaign to Spread Unionism to Every Corner.

"OPEN SHOP" PLAN HAS FAILED, HE SAYS

Statement Declares Capital's Efforts to Assuage Labor by Representation on Directorates Is Useless.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—An announcement is made by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement given out for publication today, that the Federation is about to begin a great campaign to bring unorganized workers all over the country into union ranks. Gompers himself will speak in a number of cities in furtherance of the movement, which he describes as an "intensified" effort to spread trade unionism "to every corner of the land."

Gompers declares that the "open-shop" campaign by some employing interests has been thoroughly discredited.

Gompers' Statement.

His statement follows: "Confession that the 'open shop' campaign has proved a failure was made public May 16 at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers held in New York.

"The Committee on Industrial Betterment of that organization protested against the defensive position into which the members had been forced by labor and plaintively declared: 'A defensive battle is a losing battle.'

"The committee urged that an offensive campaign be inaugurated and that the 'open shop' movement be stimulated by plans for industrial representation which would bring about the following result: 'If plans for its adoption are wisely introduced industrial representation should become the most approved method of dealing with labor. Such plans could be inaugurated by the means of labor organizations as well as independent workers are employed.'

"Labor Doesn't Want Patronage." "Having failed by coercive tactics to force autocracy in industry upon the workers, the National Association of Manufacturers now proposes to allude to the defensive position of their representatives' seats on boards of directors of the corporations. This would be empty honor, indeed. The hopes and aspirations of labor cannot be satisfied by the patronizing act of patting the workers on the back. Sincerity of purpose of employers, their whole-hearted interest in their employees, can be shown best in the contents of pay envelopes. When that is lacking there can be no encouragement for the workers in having representatives on boards of directors.

"Furthermore, such a proposal is to encourage the disorganization of the organized and prevent organization of the yet unorganized. The humiliating confession of defeat of the 'open shop' campaign officially corroborates the statements heretofore made by labor that an 'open shop' campaign was an un-American and illogical campaign conducted to serve greed and special interests. It was impossible for it to succeed. This position has been maintained by labor since the profiteering interests first launched their agitation to enslave labor.

"Open Shop" Campaign.

"The hue and cry for the 'open shop' also was intended as propaganda to influence legislation in the states similar to that adopted in Kansas to tie men to their jobs. But the propaganda proved unavailing. Not a single state followed the lead of disgraced Kansas. No more abject admission of defeat for an unworthy cause could be made than that contained in the report of a committee on industrial betterment to the National Association of Manufacturers. It is a cry for help. But the answer will be the same as that which has been made by the people to the unfair employers since the campaign began.

"The failure of the campaign to destroy trade unionism proves two things, which are:

"1. That the working people want trade union organizations and will not be driven from its protection, and;

"2. That trade unionism is fundamentally right that it is a vital part of American democracy in action and that the logic and

JAPAN TO QUIT SIBERIA AND RESTORE SHANTUNG AT "EARLIEST POSSIBLE TIME"

Statement Made by Official of Tokio Foreign Office, Nothing in Exchange Sought From China, It Is Declared.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 21.—Japan is to evacuate Siberia and restore Shantung to China "at the earliest possible moment," according to a statement by an official of the Foreign Office following adjournment today of the colonial conference, which has been in session here for the last week. This, he declared, meant that there would be "no change in Japan's fundamental policy" in the Far East.

The Government has decided not to publish any of the conclusions reached by the conference for the present, but it was declared that the results had been so gratifying that similar gatherings may be held annually to secure co-ordination between the various branches of the Government at home and in other parts of the Far East. The conference included high Japanese military and civil authorities from Siberia, Manchuria, Korea and Shantung.

The conference was presided over by Premier Hara. The sessions were private.

Circumstances to Govern.

While officials generally declined to say whether Japan would take any new positive steps in Siberia and Shantung, declaring that this depended entirely on circumstances, they voiced the hope that China was willing to discuss arrangements for restoration of the provinces.

In regard to the conditions surrounding such restoration, they emphasized that Japan sought nothing in exchange, but must have assurances that Japanese residents and interests in Shantung would be fully protected. It was added that the absence of responsible authority in China with which to deal was the greatest handicap.

The impression prevails in Tokio that Japan has actually inaugurated negotiations with the Chinese Government, though for the moment there is a question as to the recognition of that Government.

Newspaper Views.

Meanwhile the leading Japanese newspapers insist that Japan will withdraw her troops from the Shantung region to Ting Tau without awaiting Chinese acceptance of Japan's standing offer to open restoration negotiations.

It is declared this withdrawal will be carried out with an aim to hastening arrangements for the actual relinquishment of the province to China.

strength of its position are proof against successful attack.

"The opportunity seems fit to say to the workers of America and to the employers that the American Federation of Labor is about to begin a great organizing campaign. Organization work continues at all times, but this work is to be intensified. The message of trade unionism will be carried to every corner of the land, to the limit of our power. Its encouragement and protection will be offered to the workers everywhere.

"Immediately following the Denver convention next month it is my purpose to visit a number of cities to encourage the unorganized to join our movement.

"American labor wants the value of organization to be at the service of the country, for the sake of the protection of the workers and for the sake of the value of organization in stimulating encouragement and facilitation of production.

"The confession of the National Association of Manufacturers should be good news to all thinking persons. Of no less value will be the redoubled efforts to broaden and strengthen the great democratic, constructive, liberty-loving organizations of American working people.

3 ILLINOIS BREWERIES SEIZED

They Are Charged With Making Real Beer.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 23.—One large Chicago brewery and two other smaller ones in Illinois have been seized by agents from the Internal Revenue Office, it was announced yesterday, on formal complaints charging them with making and selling beer containing more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol.

The three breweries seized are: The North American Brewery, Chicago; the West Hammond Brewing Co., West Hammond, and the John Biesfeldt Brewing Co., Thornton.

The new raids were regarded as significant because they were made by representatives of the Department of Internal Revenue. With only eight prohibition agents left in Chicago, this was taken as an indication that men from other Government departments were taking up the task of enforcing prohibition here.

The newspapers also declare the Government is arranging to evacuate the whole of Siberia with the exception of the points in Saghalien province, which were occupied because of the Nikolievsk massacres.

The Kokumishi Shimbun, the military organ, attacks the Government, which it says, is trying to create the false impression that it will establish a constructive policy in Siberia by withdrawing its troops. It says the military leaders are fearful that such an evacuation will lead to anarchistic conditions inimical to Japan and the other Powers. The newspaper also reports that Japan is to make a loan to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Situation in Korea.

According to the Nichi Nichi Shimbun, Japan's conditions of withdrawal from Shantung include assurance of the maintenance of peace and order in the three Far Eastern provinces with safeguards against establishment of communism and protection of Japan's economic interests.

The Nichi Nichi adds that, to protect Koreans from million or more Koreans in Manchuria and Siberia, who are in a state of unrest, Japan is seeking a special agreement with China in regard to the extension of consular and police rights, and also a stricter control over the discontented Koreans. Simultaneously, the newspaper says, economic measures will be adopted for the benefit of the destitute Koreans in Manchuria to prevent them from being affected by Bolshevism.

Smuts for Anglo-Japanese Treaty if U. S. Is Satisfied.

By the Associated Press.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, May 23.—Jan Christian Smuts, Premier of the Union of South Africa, in referring to the coming imperial conference in a speech before the House of the Assembly, Saturday declared himself in favor of a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. America could be satisfied "that no harm to her interests could follow from its renewal," he declared. That the cardinal principle of South Africa should be to secure as far as possible true understanding and co-operation between the British empire and the United States.

"When I look at the question as a whole and the interests for which we stand," he said, "it seems to me to be vital that every effort should be made to keep in touch and in sympathetic contact with the great American republic."

PLAN FOR A COLLEGE BEFORE CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIANS

Committee Reports Also Remain to Be Considered by Assembly at Greenville, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

GREENFIELD, Mo., May 23.—Yesterday was a day of devotion at the General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church here, and delegates gathered in small groups discussing problems to come up this week. Foremost among these is the question of establishing a college.

An offer of $100,000 in cash and 100 acres of land of the church's own selection as a site for the projected theological seminary was received from the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, on condition that the plan be submitted to the assembly by committee.

An inspirational Sunday School program yesterday was led by the Rev. J. Hamp McKleskey of Nashville, Tenn., editor of Sunday school literature. Other speakers were Rev. Harry Allen, Dallas, Tex.; J. M. McKleskey, Memphis; W. Y. Burdette and Miss Allie May Taylor, Nashville. The assembly communion sermon was delivered by the Rev. W. M. Robinson, Columbia, Tenn., who was assisted in the sacrament by the Rev. W. M. Freese, Fresno, Cal.

The consecration service of the Woman's Board of Missions was another of the assembly features for the day, led by Mrs. C. M. Zwingle, Lewisburg, Tenn.

FEARS FOR SPREAD OF TYPHUS ON THE NAVAJO RESERVATION

EL PASO, Tex., May 23.—Dr. J. W. Tappan, United States Public Health Service, who returned yesterday on an investigation of the Navajo Indian reservation in North-eastern Arizona and Northwestern New Mexico, reported "serious danger of the typhus epidemic spreading over the entire reservation."

Although but six deaths have been officially reported, Dr. Tappan said there is reason to believe many more Indians have died and been buried in remote places. Virtually all members of the tribe are infected with the disease, Dr. Tappan said. A corps of Government nurses have been ordered to the stricken area.

PROGRESS ON YAP AND MEXICO ISSUES AT VITAL POINT

Optimism as to Clearing Up the Problems Felt in Washington, but the Mexican Question Is Difficult.

JAPAN NOT DISTURBED OVER YAP ISLAND

Tokio and Washington Trying to Clean the Slate Because Business Depends on Ending of Dispute.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Two delicate situations in international affairs, involving future relations between the United States and Mexico on the one hand and the United States and Japan on the other, have progressed to the vital point where the Department of State hopes that the three countries will be avoided so that a satisfactory settlement can be reached.

Optimism as to the clearing up of the two disputes is plainly reflected here, but the job ahead of Secretary Hughes in negotiating with the Obregon Government on the question of recognition is one on which the Wilson administration was able to make little headway. This was not because of the way the thing was handled, for the Harding regime has asked for the same thing from Mexico, but because the Mexican authorities believed they could get better terms from the Republicans than the Democrats.

Mexico Going Carefully.

Mexico is playing a careful game—no pressure has been exerted to obtain recognition from the United States, no outward effort has been made that could be denounced by the anti-American elements on either side. An attempt to curry favor with the United States. On the other hand, President Obregon needs the recognition of the United States, because it means recognition by the other Governments of the world. It means economic stimulus and funding of Mexico's external and internal debt through foreign loans.

To put the question on a material basis, however, would only give President Obregon's enemies a chance to start a revolution against him. The United States, on the other hand, cannot afford to accept oral assurances. Previous governments in Mexico have given and then ignored written assurances.

So, whether the assurances are embodied in a protocol or any other form of an agreement, it is expected that a definite promise will be given by the Mexican Government to treat Americans and their interests equitably or else recognition will be inevitably withheld. The Mexican Government has insisted that to sign a protocol would be humiliating and would give internal factions an opportunity to raise the cry that Obregon "has sold out to the Americans." The hope is expressed here, however, that the protocol may avoid any such imputations and that it will be simply a treaty which will make it possible for two neighboring countries to continue in peaceful relationship.

Requests by United States.

The requests of the United States that retroactive articles of the Mexican Constitution shall be eliminated as to an American property law, lawfully acquired before the Constitution of 1917 was adopted are really not unreasonable. Americans have looked to Mexico for a large part of the world's oil supply, but the wells there are going dry, and it is estimated that in another 18 months the present wells will have become practically valueless. This means that new sources of supply must be opened up, and, unless American interests can secure permits to drill new wells under favorable conditions, European interests may creep in and obtain control of the petroleum there.

Secretary Hughes has sent George Sumnerlin to Mexico City to negotiate with Obregon. Sumnerlin is charge d'affaires of the American Embassy in Mexico City, and is an intimate friend of Undersecretary Fletcher, under whom he has served in various diplomatic posts. Sumnerlin has the confidence of the Department of State to an unusual degree and will handle the negotiations in person.

Controversy With Japan.

As for the controversy with Japan over the island of Yap, matters are moving along satisfactorily for our Government. The Japanese have by no means closed the door against discussions; indeed, they have not assumed a definite position. The negotiations have been carried on in-

23 PERSONS SLAIN IN EGYPTIAN RIOTS IN ALEXANDRIA

break Against Europeans After Reported Killing of Native by a Greek.

STARTING OF MANY FIRES REPORTED

Business Houses Remain Closed After Night of Window Smashing and Other Disorders.

By the Associated Press.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 23.—It was officially announced this afternoon that 23 persons had been killed and 13 wounded in rioting here last night and this morning.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 23.—Many persons are reported to have been killed in an outbreak in Alexandria, Egypt, where natives attacked Europeans, and others Europeans.

British troops have arrived and taken charge of the town.

It is rumored the outbreak arose from the killing of a native by a Greek, which led to attacks by the natives and students on Greeks and others Europeans.

Ambulances were busy all night taking the wounded to hospitals. Many fires were started and in one district it was reported that people were burned alive.

Mobs during the night smashed windows for hours and this morning all business establishments are closed.

Before the arrival of the soldiers this morning, Europeans had gathered at the Government offices, demanding protection or permission to protect themselves. They greeted troops upon their arrival with great enthusiasm.

A dispatch from Cairo to the Exchange Telegraph Co. reports many dead lying in the streets of Alexandria. One report states that two Europeans were drenched with petrol and burned in the streets. On Sunday evening, it is known, some benzine stores near the Alexandria docks were ransacked.

A band of 1500 armed Bedouins, says the Cairo message, is reported to be advancing on Ramleh, five miles northeast of Alexandria, "to participate in a general revolution which but for the presence of the British may succeed."

Many telephone lines have been cut. Cairo, adds the message, is in an excited state, but no disorders have developed there.

A dispatch from Cairo to the Exchange Telegraph Co. reports many dead lying in the streets of Alexandria. One report states that two Europeans were drenched with petrol and burned in the streets.

A band of 1500 armed Bedouins is reported to be advancing on Ramleh, five miles northeast of Alexandria, "to participate in a general revolution which but for the presence of the British may succeed."

The way out, of course, is an agreement to internationalize the island of Yap, so that it doesn't belong either to the United States or Japan, but to all the Powers equally, and is governed by an international commission which would safeguard all interests.

Japan is not particularly disturbed over the disposition of Yap—or, rather, she would not be if Japanese-American relations showed signs of getting better. The negotiations which have been carried on, clearly here and in Tokio, indicate clearly that the Japanese, that the Harding administration is not going around with a chip on its shoulder, but is anxious to have a friendly understanding with the Japanese so that the road ahead may be traveled by both countries without suspicion.

The economic interests of the United States, as well as Japan, are straining for expansion, and on the prompt settlement of pending disputes depends the development of commerce and business relations in the Far East. Both Governments know that, and are trying by diplomacy to get a clean slate.

U. S. OUTLINES TO MEXICO CONDITIONS OF RECOGNITION

Definite Statement in Communication to Be Handed to Obregon by Counselor of Embassy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A definite statement outlining the conditions upon which the United States would extend recognition to the Obregon Government of Mexico has been prepared for submission to President Obregon. This statement, in the form of a memorandum, it was said last night, will be delivered to Obregon by George Sumnerlin, counselor of the American embassy at Mexico City, who is expected to depart for Mexico this week. He was summoned here a month ago by the Secretary of State to give first-hand information concerning the situation in that country.

The conditions for recognition, it is understood, are practically identical with the recommendations made by Secretary Fall in his report at the last session of Congress as chairman of a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which investigated the Mexican question.

Signature to Be Requested.

The important feature of the communication is said to be insistence that Obregon must sign some document giving assurances that Americans and their interests will be properly safeguarded in Mexico before the United States will consider the resumption of formal relations with that country. If such assurances are given, it is believed that Henry P. Fletcher, Undersecretary of State, who was Ambassador to Mexico for a time under the Wilson administration, until he resigned because of disapproval of that administration's policy toward Mexico, will be designated to represent the United States in drafting a treaty.

The communication which Sumnerlin will deliver to President Obregon contains nothing which can justify its being characterized as an ultimatum, but it is understood, the Mexican executive will be left in no doubt as to the determination of the American administration to see that American interests are not discriminated against. It is said to have been prepared not only with the knowledge of Secretary Fall, but in collaboration with him.

Not Discussed in Cabinet.

The Mexican question is said never to have been discussed at length at any meeting of President Harding's Cabinet, but it is understood that careful consideration has been given it by the President and Secretaries Hughes, Fall and Hoover.

Some optimism is expressed by officials regarding Obregon's reception of the decision but in certain quarters the opinion prevails that he will submit counter proposals, and if they are rejected by the American Government, will refuse definitely to sign the agreement.

It is pointed out that although Obregon desires recognition of the United States he probably will not seek it at the cost of being swept from the presidency by acceding to demands which may give opportunity for his political opponents at home to charge that he had yielded to the Americans.

Analysis of reports to the State Department is said to indicate that

Conditions Under Which U. S. Will Recognize Mexico

WASHINGTON, May 23.

By the Associated Press.

THE conditions under which the United States Government will recognize the Obregon Government of Mexico, as set forth in a note to be delivered to Obregon, are as follows:

Signature by Obregon of some kind of document giving assurance that Americans and their interests in Mexico will be properly safeguarded.

Elimination of the provisions of Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution relating to the nationalization of the subsoil rights insofar as they affect the tenure of land to which title was obtained prior to the adoption of the Constitution in 1917.

Modification of the provision which deprives Americans of the right of diplomatic appeal in cases where property is acquired, which prevent Americans acquiring and owning property within a certain zone along the Mexican coast and international boundaries.

Assurance that Article 33 of the Constitution providing for the expulsion of "pernicious foreigners" will not be applied to Americans without the filing of charges and the opportunity of a fair trial.

Modification of the provisions governing religious worship in such manner that American clergy shall have the right to exercise the functions usual in their denominations.

It is also suggested that the two Governments agree to the creation of a mixed court for the adjudication of claims.

The radical elements and political malcontents would make hard work of their excuse for renewed opposition.

The radical element has been gaining strength and has in Minister Calles and De La Huerta of Obregon's Cabinet, it is said, at least a sympathetic support.

Opposition to Either Action.

Failure to sign an agreement with the United States, on the other hand, would bring to Obregon, it is believed, almost as serious a danger, since there is another party comprising many of the old anti-Carranza revolutionary leaders, who are displeased with the present trend of the administration, as well as numbers of conservative business men and those identified with past administrations in Mexico, who, through agents here, have intimated their willingness to agree to the American demands.

The situation in Mexico has been made more complex. Reports have indicated by the unbalancing of industrial conditions. The railways idle as the result of a strike, have almost ceased full operation, and thousands of tons of freight are said to be awaiting movement. Nearly all smelters are reported to be closed and only about 5 per cent of the mines are being operated. The number of unemployed throughout the country has been estimated at about 300,000.

ZOO OUTINGS FOR CHILDREN TO BE LONGER THAN EVER THIS YEAR

Zoological Society to Provide Funds for Carfare, Lunch and Refreshments for 4000.

Despite lack of city funds for Park Department purposes, children of the congested districts will not be deprived of their outing this year. In fact the outings will be longer and better than ever, but they will be paid for with private funds.

George E. Dieckman, president of the Zoological Society, today said the society, which is distinct from the Zoological Board of Control, will provide zoo outings for 4000 children this year. They will be taken out in groups of 125.

Heretofore the outings have been only from 2 to 4 p. m., without refreshments. This year the Zoological Society will take the children to the park at 10 a. m. and bring them back at 4 p. m. and will provide carfare, lunch, soda and ice cream at an estimated cost of $1500.

SHIPPING BOARD OFFICE HERE

The United States Shipping Board has opened an office in the Liberty-Central Trust Building, which is the first inland office the board has established. T. Park Hay is in charge, assisted by W. K. Kutnewsky, traffic representative.

The purposes of this office are to establish personal contact with the shippers of the central region with a view of furnishing information as to trade routes and facilities of the American merchant marine at all ports. Commercial trade bodies will be asked to lend their co-operation in an effort to acquaint the shipping public with the facilities offered in cargo and passenger vessels flying the American flag. No tonnage will be booked by the office here.

SAN FRANCISCO MAN FLYING 5000 MILES TO VENEZUELA

Ranch Owner to Make No Attempt at Speed, but Will Make Data for Route Map.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—James Otis, San Francisco business man, started yesterday on an airplane journey to his plantation near Caracas, Venezuela. The journey, which involves about 5000 miles of travel, will occupy about four months, he expects.

Otis is accompanied by William Morris, as pilot, and Charles L. West as mechanic. The party will make no attempt at speed, but will gather data and make maps of the country observed with the idea of aiding any attempt to establish a regular air lane over the route. Their plane is of 300-horse-power and is capable of a speed of 130 miles an hour.

The first overnight stop was at San Diego, Cal., and the next two on the schedule are Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz. From Phoenix the party will travel for some time over Mexican territory.

7000 NAMES ON PLEAS IN BEHALF OF MISS HESSE

Lawyer for Teachers Files First Installment of 160 Petitions Urging Instructor's Reinstatement.

MOTHER OF EIGHT OBTAINS SIGNATURES

C. T. L. U. Resolution Declares Board's Action in Dismissing Miss Hesse Was Unwarranted.

One hundred and sixty petitions, with about 7000 signatures, asking the Board of Education to reinstate Miss Hesse as a teacher in the public schools, were filed with the board today by Samuel H. West, attorney for the Grade Teachers' Association, of which Miss Hesse is honorary president.

West said the petitions were the first installment of what is expected to be a large collection, of such petitions, and that they came chiefly from individuals who have applied for petition blanks at his office and circulated them in their own neighborhoods. The petitions in the hands of teachers and those which the labor unions have planned to circulate are in large part still out.

The greater number of the signatures thus far, West said, appear to be the parents of school children. He said one mother, who he understood has eight children in the schools, left her household duties to circulate a petition, which is one of those filed today.

The board dismissed Miss Hesse from the school system recently, on complaint of Christopher W. Johnson, a member of the board, who complained that she made injurious statements about him in the recent election.

Dismissal of Miss Hesse Criticized by Central Trades Union.

The recent action of the Board of Education in dismissing Miss Hesse, head assistant at the Franz Sigel School, and president of the St. Louis Grade Teachers' Association, was criticized in a resolution adopted yesterday at the semi-monthly meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Union. The action was characterized as "unbecomingly intolerant and unbecomingly the members of the Board of Education."

As is known, Miss Hesse was dismissed on a charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher, the charge being based on a complaint by Christopher W. Johnson, a member of the board, that she had accused him of "running a sweatshop and with being connected with a real estate company which had transacted business with the Board of Education."

"The action of the Board of Education," the resolution states, "in permitting Christopher W. Johnson to order an investigation by an officer employed by the Board of Education of which the said Mr. Johnson is a member and in permitting the said Christopher W. Johnson to act as plaintiff, prosecutor, judge and juror, establishes a precedent not in accord with the laws and rules governing public bodies, and if permitted to stand and be followed in future cases will serve only to coerce and intimidate all public employees in the selection of candidates for public offices."

Reference was made in the resolution, which was introduced by Thomas Kinseola of the Steamfitters and Helpers' and Gasfitters' and Helpers' Union, to Miss Hesse's 31 years of service as a school teacher, and also mentioned her explanation that she had merely asked if reports concerning Johnson's business affairs were true.

Following the adoption of the resolution President Hauer appointed a committee consisting of Kinseola, Vice President Coyne, Secretary Kreyling, Peter Belsel of the Bakers' Union, and Mrs. E. L. Quick of the Railroad Clerks' Union to co-operate with other organizations, including the Building Trades Council, in an effort to have Miss Hesse reinstated.

The Legislative Committee of the Central Trades and Labor Union was instructed to take any steps deemed advisable to prevent a curtailment of public recreational facilities. Samuel A. Snyder of the Photo Engravers' Union, in presenting a motion to have the matter investigated, said that the public playgrounds meant a great deal to the children of workmen, and that none of them should be eliminated "even if some public officials have to be deprived of city automobiles."

The Legislative Committee also was instructed to take up with the Board of Aldermen the question of cutting off the appropriation for the maintenance of the City Complaint Board. It was suggested that a bill providing for funds for this department be prepared and submitted to the Board of Aldermen.

STOCKS RISE AND NEW YORK STOCKS FOREIGN COURSE

Motor Shares Declined Early When Tobacco, Railroad and Industrial Specialties Ruled Steady—Call Money Eases Near Close.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Evening
Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"A highly irregular movement was witnessed in the stock market today.
Opening fractionally lower, industrial issues recovered and during the next three hours followed no distinct trend. The different groups acted separately, motors declining quite sharply at the same time the tobacco, railroad and industrial specialties were showing the effects of steady buying. That condition prevailed until early afternoon when a concerted movement lowered higher prices got under way, resulting in gains of 1 and 2 points throughout the list. Call money renewed at 7 percent, but in the last hour the rate of new loans was lowered to 6 1/2.

Exchange Market Down.

"After a firm opening, with cable quotation indicating an advance of a quarter of a cent or Sunday's closing, sterling developed a sudden weakness, following offerings in unusual volume. Demand sterling sold down to 23 1/2, which is the lowest price since April 29, and is 2 1/2 cents below Saturday's final quotation.
The exchanges on other countries exhibited a similar weakness, francs selling down to 13 1/2 or 41 points below Saturday's closing, lire down to 142 or 14 points below Saturday, and marks down to 153, or 7 points lower than Saturday. In the absence of definite information from abroad it was generally assumed that London was accumulating dollar credits as part of the plan to convert German reparations payments into American funds, but some doubt was cast upon this explanation by the fact that the London market showed some strength at the closing.

"May wheat showed some strength in a market otherwise lacking pronounced features. The opening price was 1 1/2, or 1 1/2 points above Saturday's closing, and after advancing to 1 1/2 it later receded to 1 1/2.
July wheat opened a quarter of a cent above Saturday at 1 1/2, advanced to 1 1/2, but later dropped back to the opening quotation. Cotton was dull and weak. May futures opened at 12 1/2, or 4 points off Saturday and later reacted to 12 1/2. July quotations followed the same general trend, opening at 12 1/2 or 4 points below Saturday and selling down to 12 1/2.

New French Loan.

"The official announcement of a new French loan of $100,000,000 to be placed in the hands of a syndicate of bankers was not unexpected.
Reports that such a loan was pending were current during the past week, but in checking the news it was lacking. It was generally understood, however, that the French Government had definitely decided to offer its new loan to the American market, and was only awaiting an opportune moment to invite subscriptions. While this international credit operation may presumably have some effect in checking the flow of specie to this country—a consumption which some financiers are beginning devoutly to wish—The amount of the loan in relation to the recent volume of gold imports is evidently too small to be of any far reaching effect. The fact that a portion of the loan will be retained for the redemption of maturing bonds in this country during the current year tends further to strengthen this view. The full amount of the loan represents no more gold than has been coming to this country in an average 40-day period since the beginning of the year."

Wall Street News and Comment —SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 23.—A very sharp recession in the foreign exchange market and continued irregularity in stocks were the leading incidents in the financial situation today. The market was bid up over 4 cents in pound in sterling and the almost equally abrupt fall in continental bills was a reflection of the same condition. The decline in the dollar value of the latest news from Russia.
Reports that the Germans, with some English co-operation, were fighting the Poles, did not give the impression of things going as smoothly toward a settlement as had been counted upon in financial circles last week. But the main explanation for the downward turn in the exchanges obviously lay in the operations preparatory to the first payment on German reparations. As this payment is to be in dollars, according to the latest decision, it has become an object to convert into dollars the currencies of the other countries interested in the big transaction. The fact that the value of the American dollar abroad finds itself suddenly raised because of its being fixed upon as the medium for conducting the transaction, has been a factor in the rise in the value of the dollar from all over the world.

The stock market started in cautiously. There was some renewal of selling in a few special issues, but this was quickly offset by the buying in other quarters, especially in Mexican Petroleum and the tobacco stocks.
Man, balances on the day, with a point, with remarkable activity, and the suggestion in this and other areas, that the further supply of many stocks, and current price, was pretty small, caused some uneasiness among speculators for the decline. For a brief space around midday there was quite a rally, devoted to covering purchases, but the result of a quick upward turn of a point to 2 points in the active speculative issues. This was checked in the afternoon, however, by the development of fresh weakness in the motor issues. The break in Pierce-Ar-

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

An Auditor's Figures.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Just as an illustration as to what the high cost of railway labor means to the common people, the ranchmen of Wyoming shipped their sheep from the mountains down to Cheyenne last fall, and after paying the freight bill had nothing left from the market price of sheep. In other words, the railroad unions took the entire labor of the sheep men in raising their stock. You can buy redwood lumber today in Oregon for less than the cost of transportation to Colorado—half way to St. Louis. Hence high rents. Here's more statistics not published by the Railway Brotherhoods:

YEAR.	Wages.	Index.	Cost of Carried by Living.	Per Cent Ry. Capital.
1914.....	100	100	4.12
1915.....	101.8	102	4.17
1916.....	109.3	115	5.90
1917.....	122.0	132.2	8.21
1918.....	173.9	169.9	3.60
1919.....	181.7	193.5	2.64
1920.....	230	204.6	.33
1921—Not finished.....	168.6	No estimate

But no reduction yet.

Now, who is getting the big increase that we are paying for poorer freight and passenger service? The greedy capitalist that the railroad unions talk about has had his returns reduced nearly 400 per cent by these figures, while the railroad unions have increased their pay 130 per cent. These are the figures of the National Industrial Conference Board. Railway wages should be cut at least 20 per cent, and the cutting out of the extravagant "national agreements" which make it necessary to hire six men to work three hours on a job that one man did in half an hour in the old days will save the common consumer a great deal more. These brotherhood "experts" who never ran a railroad and never worked on one—being hired simply to get up statistics—can save millions on paper by theoretical suppositions, but it is common sense to believe that the practical men who run our railroads don't know more about practical saving than these hired propagandists? Or even more than the heads of the brotherhoods who hire them?

RAILWAY AUDITOR.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

That is a fine letter the St. Louis Retail Druggists' Association wrote to the doctors. The doctors make a great pretense that patent medicines are harmful, yet the doctor is advised not to prescribe proprietary remedies because "he thereby creates 'household remedies,' which are handed down from generation to generation and simply take the bread out of the physician's mouth." The patent medicine manufacturer claims that his medicines are the poor man's doctor, and it seems that this is finally admitted by the druggists.

The whole scheme seems to be to write prescriptions for which the druggists can get a big price and which the patient cannot repeat without going to the doctor. In other words, the druggist cannot charge over 25 cents for a prescription for 12 aspirin tablets, but he can charge $1 or more for a bottle of "aspirin," which means the same thing. And besides, the patient will not understand the latter prescription, and if he needs more of the same medicine he must go to his doctor for a prescription instead of going to the druggist and buying 10 cents' worth. It is a great game.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Something ought to be embodied in our law to protect the man that is so fortunate as to have a few children. Last Sunday in your paper I advertised for a flat. I received five answers and not one would give me even a show when they learned I had two children—8 and 11 years.

We have here a question that is attacking the very vitals of civilization. The future of the race and country is involved. The law and public sentiment ought to place a severe condemnation upon any man that will stoop to such a practice.

Aurora Borealis Exposed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Reasoning from the basis that the earth is a great magnet, would it be unreasonable to believe that the earth, at certain times of the year, finds its magnetic currents diminishing and that the Aurora Borealis waves are the result of remagnetizing the planet and in this way holding the earth's relative equilibrium with the rest of the universe?

When we stop to think that all creation hangs in automatic equilibrium, swaying in alternate phases, and realizing that all planetary functions depend one upon the other for universal poise, and then taking note of the inevitable law of deterioration and decay, the theory seems not at all unreasonable.

Creation being one of motion, we must conclude that all plant and animal life, in conjunction with the earth's axial and orbital movements, require a constant supply of energy in order to retain their universal poise which apparently is supplied by the magnetic waves and electrical currents which we term the Aurora Borealis.

JOHN P. KLUUG.

WHAT LISTS TO SHORTEN.

The conclusion of Mayor Kiel and Comptroller Nolte at a conference this morning not to curtail swimming pools and other recreational facilities and activities in parks and playgrounds this summer is wise. These recreations which count for so much for the sound development of the young in the city, particularly in the congested districts during the hot season, and for their moral and mental as well as their physical welfare can least be spared.

What about the municipal nurses, three of whom are to be cut off? Their activities are incalculably beneficial in the conservation of life and health. Their service means the preservation of life. The program this year called for an increase instead of a decrease of nurses. An increase is needed and a decrease, as the Post-Dispatch has stated, means a death sentence for children and others among the poor who have been cared for by the nurses.

Do the Mayor and the Comptroller want a longer death list and sick list, with a shorter nurse list? Will the people of St. Louis endorse this policy?

St. Louis is short now in hospital, nursing and recreational facilities. The city lags behind the best of other cities. Shall we go farther backward?

Comptroller Nolte says we will let the grass grow longer in the parks and cut off expenditures for other park purposes. It would be preferable to have the list of janitors, inspectors, political henchmen in city hall jobs and official automobiles shorter. Reduce the enormous office payrolls and the cost of official automobiles to the point of economy and efficiency, before touching the municipal functions which make for life and public health and the well-being of the people, especially the children who are our best municipal assets and our future citizens.

A MOMENTOUS CHOICE.

The history of the Supreme Court of the United States is to a noticeable degree a reflex of the characters of the men who have presided as Chief Justices, particularly where those men were of strong will and firm habits of thought. Thus, during almost the first half century of its existence the aggressive federalism of John Marshall, and, to a lesser extent, of Jay, whom he succeeded, resulted in a constant extension of the powers of the Federal Government, provoking Jefferson to characterize the Supreme Court Justices bitterly as "miners and sappers of the Constitution."

With the accession of Roger B. Taney to the position of Chief Justice in 1836 the court as zealously opposed any further amplification of Federal powers by following a strict construction of the Constitution and stressing the reserved powers of the states as an inviolable principle in our dual system. This arresting process lasted until 1864, when Salmon P. Chase succeeded Taney. Chase was well qualified by sympathy and habits of thought to uphold the tremendous exercise of war powers by the Federal Government, and during his nine years of service the tendencies of the era of Marshall again manifested themselves to a marked degree. In the last quarter of the century, under the presidency of Waite and Fuller, the centralizing movement, while not accelerated, was not opposed save by a few brilliant dissenters so hopelessly in the minority as hardly to present an obstacle.

The late Chief Justice White succeeded Melville W. Fuller in 1910. Coming from the South, where loyalty to Jefferson still viewed centralization as the embodiment of federalism, it was thought that the new Chief Justice would guide the court back to strict construction. In some of his earlier decisions one can see flashes of his lingering sympathy with the Jeffersonian school of thought, but in recent years it grew dimmer and dimmer, almost to the point of disappearance. The majority of the court, with which he aligned himself or which he guided, has not taken its stand so much upon the old question of Federal powers vs. the reserved powers, but rather upon a liberalism in the construction of both Federal and state powers that, some think, threaten the efficacy of constitutional limitations generally. It is an attitude that might be responsive to "the touch of public opinion" at a time when social and political problems were never so complex.

In view of this condition the appointment of the late Chief Justice's successor becomes a matter of the deepest concern. It involves the answer to the question whether we are to go on in the slow but dangerous alienation of sympathy with limited government, a loss of respect for written restrictions upon governmental powers, and the final appearance of something in the nature of unlimited democracy, in which the sole test of power is the assumed public welfare of the moment.

Among those suggested for the place is ex-President Taft. Mr. Taft would grace the supreme bench from the standpoint of learning and the fine qualities of his heart. There is no man in public or private life who is more generally held in affection by his fellow citizens. But it must be confessed at the same time that Mr. Taft lacks that aggressive zeal of conviction, that obstinacy, or whatever it may be called, that would be necessary to influence the Supreme Court along any clear and definite course. His virtues might make of him a follower rather than a leader. This is a time not for the amenities but for fervor.

HUGHES VS. HARVEY.

There need be no speculation as to the discrepancy of views between Ambassador Harvey and his superior, Secretary of State Hughes, unless the superior has directly reversed himself since he joined with 30 other distinguished advocates of peace in an appeal to the American people to vote for Candidate Harding as "the true course to bring America into an effective league to preserve peace."

That there may be no unsure reliance on memory as to just what Col. Harvey said at London and what Charles Evans Hughes said over his signature to a document printed on Oct. 15, 1920, we reproduce excerpts of the statements exactly as they have been given to the world. Ambassador Harvey at London said:

Finally, the question of America's participation in the league came before the people, who decided by a majority of 7,000,000. Prior to that election there had been much discussion of the real meaning of the word mandate. There has been little since. A single example provided a definition. A majority of 7,000,000 clearly conveyed a mandate that could neither be misunderstood nor disregarded. It follows, then, that the present government could not, without betrayal of its creators and masters, and with the most disastrous effect, have another thing whatsoever to do with the league or any commission or committee appointed by it or responsible to it, directly or indirectly, openly or furtively.

And now, what did Mr. Hughes and his cosignatories say when Republicans who wanted the League of Nations were looking to such responsible leaders as Mr. Hughes for guidance as to which way they should vote to secure the enforcement of their will in the matter? Here are the words of the statement:

We have reached the conclusion that the true course to bring America into an effective league to preserve peace is not by insisting with Mr. Cox upon the acceptance of such a provision as article 10, thus prolonging the unfortunate situation created by Mr. Wilson's insistence upon that article. BY FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AND OTHER NATIONALS TO AGREE TO CHANGES IN THE PROPOSED AGREEMENT which will obviate this vital objection and other objections less the subject of dispute. For this course we can look only to the Republican party and its candidates.

THE CONDITIONS OF EUROPE MAKE IT ESSENTIAL THAT THE STABILIZING EFFECT OF THE TREATY ALREADY MADE BETWEEN THE EUROPEAN POWERS SHALL NOT BE LOST BY THEM AND THAT THE NECESSARY CHANGES BE MADE BY CHALLENGING THE TERMS OF THAT TREATY RATHER THAN BY BEGINNING ENTIRELY ANEW.

Ambassador Harvey said the question of America's participation in the League was decided by a majority of 7,000,000. Which way? Harvey's way or Hughes' way? According to Harvey this crushing majority voted not only to stay out, but, he said, the present Government, on their mandate, will not "have another thing to do with the League or any commission or committee appointed by it or responsible to it, directly or indirectly, openly or furtively." According to Hughes the only way to get into the League was by voting for the Government that created Harvey and himself.

It remains to Mr. Hughes to indicate whether, by concurring in the view of his subordinate, he has reversed himself since campaign days.

All of the 31 signers were distinguished advocates of peace and some of them were staunch Republicans. Among the number were Lyman Abbott, Nicholas Murray Butler, John Grier Hibben, Herbert Hoover, A. Lawrence Lowell, Elihu Root, Jacob Gould Schurman, H. L. Stimson, Oscar S. Straus, Henry W. Taft, William Allen White and George W. Wickesham. But if the other 30 signers were themselves victimized, they are now, with the exception of Mr. Hoover, without means of making good their assurance to the voters. CHIEF HANNEGAN'S DEMOTION.

The reduction of Chief of Detectives Hannegan to a police captain in the latest departmental shakeup has been made without explanation other than that Chairman Miller considers Hoagland, who has been promoted to the place, a most competent man. That may be true. Nevertheless, Hoagland yet has his spurs to win as a Chief. Hannegan has won his. The deposed Chief's reputation is not confined to St. Louis. It is nation-wide. Throughout the world of crookdom St. Louis is known as "Hannegan's town," by which is meant that St. Louis is a good place for the professional crook to stay away from.

With such facts Chairman Miller, it is presumed, is familiar. He is aware, too, that age disability cannot be offered in this case. Hannegan at 47 is at the very height of his powers.

In the reorganization of the Police Department Chairman Miller ought to be credited with his announced purpose to increase the department's efficiency and judged by results, though his sensational, startling methods betray a lack of wisdom and experience. Granting the sincerity of the chairman's intentions, however, does not mean that the changes he is making are to be accepted without question. A serious question has been raised in the demotion of Hannegan. If an admittedly able officer who has filled a post with distinction can be removed summarily and without known cause, what assurance can any officer have that his head will not be chopped off? And what must be the effect of such a condition of uncertainty on the department as a whole? In private enterprise we know it would be demoralizing. We are warranted in assuming that such must be the consequence in the Police Department.

The fortune of an individual officer may be of no moment from the public viewpoint, but the morale of the Police Department is of most vital importance. With that responsibility of his office Chairman Miller should be gravely concerned.

MAIN STREET FOLKS.

By One of 'Em.

A LITTLE personality is worth a thing or two. And Main street folks are finding this to be a factor true.

Their mode of life and manner now receives so much attention that noisy, hum-drum city folks seem scarcely worth the mention.

Distinctive characteristics, tho' the life is broad (?), they say.

Don't seem to be conspicuous 'mongst the city folks today.

But Main street folks are different, with a spirit so unharassed.

That needy authors now proceed to write of them ungarished.

In stories and in movies, and in every other style.

By which they hope to win some fame and needed cash the while.

There's Sinclair Lewis and Zona Gale and others who owe thanks

To Main street folks for fortunes lately piled within their banks.

'Tis but another charity these Main street folks have done.

This furnishing material for authors to make moon;

For charity and sympathy and friendly love and aid

Are traits which Main street people have and give, tho' unrepaid;

And further yet, they strive to help those struggling writer folks—

They buy their books and see their plays and read their stilt, trite jokes.

A noble service, truly, with a moral very plain—

And that, at least, is something which these authors' books can't claim.

wonder if these writers wouldn't find their sailing rough

If Main street folks should boycott all their books and plays and stuff.

RUTH YOLANDE SHAW.

Sir: I was very much pleased to find in this evening's paper your fine tribute to Franklin K. Lane. Was particularly glad to note your feeling reference to the fact that "he left no will and no estate," for just before I passed up this afternoon my mind had been dwelling on that very remarkable thing, and I thought what rich material there is in those words for a great epic! No estate, indeed, in a material sense; but, as Stevenson has said, he has left, he of the "strong and cheerful heart," "a hopeful impulse in the world and bettered the tradition of mankind." And, leaving us this rich legacy, he has gone, "trailing with him clouds of glory."

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

MADAME CURIE.

From the New York Tribune.

AMERICA properly extends the warmest welcome to Mme. Curie, one of the foremost scientists of the world, and in achievement the greatest woman of the present generation. It was a happy inspiration that led the American welcoming committee to raise a fund of $100,000 to buy and present a gram of radium to its discoverer. Of Mme. Curie the scientist it is unnecessary to speak. As a recipient of the Nobel prize and as a member of the exclusive French Academy of Science her rank is fixed. And to Americans the glory of her work is not lessened by the fact that she came from the people, herself earned the money that maintained her when a student at the Sorbonne, and first saw the rays of the self-feeding jewel metal that she uncovered in a laboratory so limited as to be little more than a closet. But of the woman who has done much for other women it is well to bear testimony. She is a personal force for the upliftment of her sex, and this despite the fact that she has not been noted in the self-conscious woman movement. After all, there is nothing that teaches as does example. It is the deed that counts. Mme. Curie, though her concern is in pure knowledge, has ended the reproach that in the higher walks of the understanding women do not travel. Her wonderful career, as wonderful when she was struggling as when fame came to her, is inspiring thousands of women to press on and up.

THE MOONEY CASE.

From the Nation.

THE Mooney case is a sensational enough demonstration of how justice may miscarry in an American court. Yet it is merely better advertised than scores of similar miscarriages in which public officials have been equally brutal and corrupt. They are almost typically so in isolated industrial communities dominated by open-shop employers afraid of labor unrest. Congressional hearings and the reports of Government agents supply many instances. The Mooney case is, after all, a shocker for the naive and the uninformed. And it is even something when public officials are forced to become lawbreakers in order to work injustice. In California prisons today are a score of men serving long sentences legally inflicted under laws that throw a mantle of respectability over the ferocity of the ignorant and the malice of men who manipulate the passions and prejudices of the mob. No Bishop concerns himself over their fate. Personally, I should rather see intolerance and hatred and stupidity break the laws than make them. The entirely legal conviction and imprisonment in California of members of the I. W. W. and the Communist Labor party strikes me as more sinister than the plight of Mooney and Billings. If Southern States were to pass laws legalizing the lynching bee for unpopular negroes the race question would appear even more hopeless than it is today.

LADY ASTOR IN PARLIAMENT.

From the Wilmington Star.

LADY ASTOR was speaking in support of a bill to make the mother of a child its joint guardian with the father, providing equality of authority, rights and responsibility for the parents. "Few mothers know," she said, "that no mother has a legal right over her child." She has been speaking of course of England. She might have been speaking of certain states in this country. Doubtless there was widespread amazement recently when a speaker at the national convention of women voters mentioned the adherence of several states to the ancient theory of an exclusive paternal rule over children. With the appearance of women in politics the public is beginning to learn of some inequalities based on sex distinctions that are wholly repugnant to modern conceptions of justice. In England the plain-spoken Lady Astor is leading the way to a better understanding. Despite its "oh's" and "ah's," the Commons voted with her Friday afternoon, and her bill went to a second reading.

"I Would Give My Life to My Airplane; Don't Want to Marry," Says Laura Bromwell

Daring Young Flyer Who Made Record of 199 Aerial Loops Tells of Her Ambition to Become Champion of the Air.

By FAY STEVENSON.

"WHAT are my ambitions? Why am I so daring with airplanes? Because I want to hold the record for women as an aviator, not only for looping but for altitude. I want to fly across the continent and then across the ocean. I am mad about airplanes. They are my whole life. I don't care a rap about matrimony. I am not intending to use my knowledge to make money. I haven't the slightest idea of being an instructor. I am simply interested in records and the sport of the thing."

That is what pretty golden-haired, blue-eyed Laura Bromwell, the 23-year-old girl who broke her record for looping and established a new world's record for women when she looped her Curtiss Standard 199 times during a flying exhibition at Curtiss Field, Mineola, told me. Her previous record of 87 loops was made last August over the same field. Dressed in a smart gown of navy blue headed georgette, with an intriguing black hat and a floating light blue plume which rested on both sides most gracefully against a golden halo of bobbed hair, Miss Bromwell laughed and frankly pointed out that she is after the aerial scalps of Miss Ruth Law and Miss Katherine Stinson, pioneer women flyers; Velora Nelson of Philadelphia; Jane Herveaus, the French flyer; Helen Ruff and any others who apply for or hold pilot's licenses. Realizes Her Hope to Break the Looping Record.

"My dearest hope was to break the looping record," confessed Miss Bromwell. "Last year I made 87 loops and broke the record which was held by the late Countess Roache, a French aviator, who had made 26 loops, and Ruth Law, who had a record of 24 loops to her credit. "All my life I have been wild about airplanes, just the way most girls are anxious to go on the stage or in the movies. Only I am even more devoted to airplanes than most girls are to any hobby. I am willing to give my whole life to my airplane. I don't want to marry and I don't want to devote myself to anything else in the world. Way back in 1910, when I was a little girl I saw an airplane for the first time. I made up my mind what my life would be. Then when I saw Ruth Law fly in Cincinnati, I almost went crazy."

At this point Miss Bromwell explained that she was practically alone in the world and thought that fact had much to do with her determination to make a success of flying. "My father died in 1907," said Miss Bromwell, "and mother would not think of listening to my airplane dreams. We lived in Cincinnati and I had an automobile and motorcycle, but that satisfied me not at all. In 1918 mother died and our estate was divided up between three sisters and a brother. I felt alone in the world and able to do all my life. I had been wanting to do all my life. "And while I have been wonderfully happy in my new life, I would not advise the average girl to go in for flying," continued Miss Bromwell, with just a look of seriousness in her large blue eyes.

"Because it is too hard a life for the average girl," I asked.

"Hard and dangerous," replied Miss Bromwell. "I have never had an accident and shall be as careful as I can, but one never can tell. With me it is a sport. There is no money in flying. If I did have an income I should never leave my airplane. I have no hobby, if you can call it that. And then it really is hard work. After taking those loops—yes, those 199, and I counted 200 myself, but perhaps I was wrong—I am sore today. It wasn't a nervous shock to me. I am as steady as a rock. The physical effort really is hard. Therefore, I wouldn't advise any young girl to go in for flying."

"But how did you get your start? How did you begin?"

"Left to and on Her Own Resources," said Miss Bromwell. "After mother's death I went to Virginia during a Liberty Loan drive. Then it was announced that the person who sold the most bonds would be taken up in a Government plane. I had a double reason for making good on that drive. I not only wanted to sell as many bonds as I could, but I wanted to realize my dearest ambition—to get into a plane."

"Well, I sold more bonds than anyone else. I turned in $21,000 worth of them, and I had my trip. It was what all girls say 'W-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l'."

"Then I darted up to the Curtiss Flying School at Garden City, L. I., and in July, 1919, with Capt. Richard Dwyer as instructor, took my first lesson in flying. I became so interested that I lived at a house in Westbury, L. I., and was the first person on the field every morning and the last one off at night. When I was not taking actual instruction I observed Curtiss pilots and mechanics handling machines in the air, installing motors, setting up machines and making repairs."

"I suppose you know all about planes and can take them to pieces and put them together again, the way some girls, can their motor cars?"

"No, I don't like that part of an airplane. The flying is all that appeals to me," confessed Miss Bromwell. "I can change spark plugs and do a few stunts like that, but if I were to fly across the continent and across the ocean (and I am going to do just those two things), why, then I should have to have a first rate mechanic along with me."

She's on the Flying Field Every Day. NOW that Miss Bromwell has broken her own record of last year and looped 199 times, she is not taking lessons any more. She doesn't have to, but she still lives at Westbury, L. I., and goes out to the field every day. And you can't keep here from doing stunts. Previous to establishing her new record she flew an S. V. A. plane over a measured course of 1.99 miles at a speed of 153 miles an hour, which is also claimed to be a speed record for women. Later she piloted the plane from which William E. (Wild Bill) Kippa of Newark made a parachute jump at an altitude of 3000 feet.

In October, 1919, just three months after she had taken lessons at the Curtiss Flying School, Miss Bromwell was the first woman to receive a license from the Aero Club after the armistice and the tenth woman in the United States to have the honor at any time. She is the only aero policeman in the world, and in 1920 she was the trained aviator who did so many stunts in the air at the Police Field Day games at the Gravesend track. Also, during 1920, Miss Bromwell operated a passenger plane at Atlantic City during the Rotary Club Convention, taking some of the most prominent executives of the country up for a spin.

"An airplane means more to me than anything else in the world," concluded this dainty slip of a girl. "And remember, I love an airplane from sheer sport, not because I want to have it make my fortune. I have spent a good sum on airplanes, and at school and upon costumes, and an airplane has never brought me in a red cent. It has cost me backaches and pains, but for real pleasure and happiness and for alluring cloud life, give me an airplane and I am content."

And you are willing to sacrifice a husband and home life and perhaps children for a winged bit of mechanism? I asked.

A smile played about Miss Bromwell's firm little mouth, while a mysterious light passed over her blue eyes and she passed a hand over her golden hair.

"Well, I take that back," she laughed. "I really have a heart, but so far no one has ever got it away from me. Only I wouldn't marry an aviator for worlds. It's too dangerous a business. And, please put this in small type and parenthetically: "If I ever marry I'll never fly again!"

Meanwhile, Miss Bromwell is out for records. She is just "mad" about them. "I am just 'mad' about them," she said. "I am just 'mad' about them."

PARSNIP FRITTERS

BOTH those who like pears and those who do not care for them will find parsnip fritters delicious. To one cup of mashed parsnips add one egg, beaten; a little milk and flour, in which has been mixed one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, to make a batter. Fry in bacon fat and serve hot. They make a very appetizing luncheon dish with a little grating of cheese, but are quite delicious alone.

UNCOMMON SENSE

"Nerves" Are a Luxury.

By JOHN BLAKE

IF you have an inherited fortune, which someone else is taking care of for you, you can afford to have "nerves."

You can afford to be sensitive, to be easily irritated, to be extravagantly disturbed at small annoyances.

You will not enjoy this, but it may be some comfort to know that you can afford it.

But if you have your way to make, and are anxious to get as far as possible with your particular mental equipment, you will find that "nerves" are too big a load to carry.

You no doubt have discovered by this time, the devil in which we have our being is not altogether a pleasant one.

In it there are loud and raucous noises, offensive sights, and displeasing people.

There is also a thing called labor, which viewed from the standpoint of the fussy man is a good deal of a burden.

But this happens to be the only world you are in for the present at least.

And if you permit all its unpleasant features to get on your nerves, you are going to be so busy with your unhappiness and your self-pity that you will have very little time to improve your natural gifts.

If you are nervous and touchy and sensitive, and always looking for offense, you might as well go directly to the poorhouse and give yourself up. You will get there in the end and it will only be a waste of time to delay your arrival.

A good many cases of "nerves" were cured by the great war, permanently.

Young gentlemen who thought they could not eat, save from a nice table d'hôte spread with the best food, and who fancied they could not sleep if a trolley car was rattling by, discovered that they were mistaken.

After they had slept for a few days within the sound of exploding shells they saw that they hadn't had much to worry about back in peace times.

Get rid of your nerves if you want to get along. Take the world as you find it and put up with it. You may be able to become very able, and very great, before you can do so.

MUCH-NEEDED INVENTIONS

A Water-Proof Tablecloth for Spring Picnics.

The Eye of Cleopatra

By Richard Washburn Child

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

Suddenly he stepped away from her.

"I suppose there's something else I should tell you," he said.

"What?"

Robbie figured the Oriental brocade of the table cover as if considering.

"Well, there is a superstition about Cleopatra's Eye," said he, almost reluctantly.

"You see the first of its history—the very first—was when it was found on the coast of Sicily in 1848. It was found by a sailor in the clinched hand of a young man at- tired in the costume of one of nobility. But neither his nationality nor his identity was ever known. He had committed suicide."

Dolores touched the pearl timidly with the tip of one of her forefingers. Then she gave a moan and shivered.

"A graduate of one of the best of our American colleges who has taken honors in philosophy before he is 19 is above belief in such nonsense," Robbie said, with a grin. "I tell you just so we can laugh at it, but it is said that bad luck pursues the owners of the Eye of Cleopatra. It is said that as time goes on when the pearl has not changed hands it loses its luster little by little, and as it loses its luster so does the owner. They say it has often been owned by persons who have killed themselves."

"Pooh!" exclaimed Dolores. "I dare it!"

"Good for you!" Robbie almost shouted. "I knew you'd say just what I wanted you to say—you dear, wonderful girl of mine, with your eternal spirit! I want you for all ways."

Nevertheless, when young Robinson Slade had left Dolores turned the pendant this way and that in the pink, moist palm of her hand. She tried then to assure herself that the great pearl had not lost something almost imperceptible of its brilliance. What nonsense! She put it down.

Dear old Robbie! She ran to the window and pulled the heavy curtains apart to look down into the street. He had gone.

He had gone, but there was a man's figure moving slowly out of the shadow of the iron park fence. She thought it must be Stuart Hotchkiss. Rain, dismal rain, with a dismal accompaniment of whining kites, had come and it was hard to see, but she concluded that it must be Hotchkiss after all.

Dolores was quite right. The man she had seen was Hotchkiss. He was no fool; he was over 40 and versed in low intrigue. He had known rather well that he could throw a bombshell into the office of Bertram J. Slade. The latter was not a man who would see his son become involved with a singer whom Mrs. Tremayer Collier had "picked out of the gutter."

Hotchkiss shrewdly guessed that the father did not know of young Robinson's attentions to little Miss Taraffa. He may have interpreted these attentions as one of his kind would naturally interpret them. If, perchance, he had correctly estimated the boy's purpose to make a life-long alliance with her, he was all the more convinced of the shock this would be to a hard-headed planner like old Slade. He was in no hurry, for, out of luck and money as he was, he had been able to afford enough to corrupt Etienne, the worthless son of old Annette, and all tales were brought to his ears. He wanted to accumulate all the details of the tale he was to hear.

When Dolores saw him he had not come particularly to see Robbie emerge from Dolores' apartment before midnight. He had come because Etienne had left the apartment after visiting his mother and had telephoned to Hotchkiss that he had a tale which would "break his eardrum." That was why Hotchkiss had come, and the story of Cleopatra's Eye was now his!

Hotchkiss took it to Slade. When he had finally been admitted to the millionaire's office he said, with a gesture of nobility:

"You will wonder, perhaps, why I am coming to you in a matter of confidential disclosure. I will tell you in advance, Mr. Slade. It is because if I were a father I would thank the men who would do the same for me. It is a matter between gentlemen."

"My son?" exclaimed Slade, in a startled, anxious voice, for the father had as much faith in Robinson as he had in the South American trade.

"What about my son?"

Hotchkiss told him. "I have a friend in the jewelry appraisal business," he concluded. "And I confess it was something of a shock to me to know the value—the price—of Cleopatra's Eye."

"What was that price?"

"Ten thousand dollars."

Hotchkiss had made good his promise to get even with Robinson Slade.

The export man did not go to see Dolores Taraffa to beg her to give up his son. "I have a distaste for Camille scenes," he said afterward. He merely wrote a letter. It was a brutal letter, not brutal in the sense of its phrases, for it was written with a fine manner of mock gallantry, but brutal in the exquisite thrust after thrust.

He spoke of the shock it had been to him that his own son had not expressed to him the pleasure he had taken in her acquaintance; he said that it must be indeed only a persuading personality like hers that could make his own son spend the last cent he ever got from his father upon a trinket for her to wear over her heart.

In Dolores there was fineness of metal, well tempered, and under injury it could whip up like a broken hand spring. Robbie had no way of knowing the hours she had spent in bitter tears; she had effaced them and their traces with ice and many bathings before he came to see her on that memorable night.

At first as he came in he did not know she was in the room. She was standing by the heavy curtains in the shadow, and only after she had come forward, with her small head erect and as white as a marble ball, did he realize that she was there.

"I have received a letter from your father," she said. "Here it is."

He read it, agitated.

"You might have told me how much this pearl cost," she said, with her fine teeth tightly closed.

"It was nothing—the cost."

"I did not know. I should have refused such a gift. Not only have you made yourself a fool, but you have made a fool of me. This is the thing you call love—this madness."

"It may have been madness," said Robbie, in a trembling voice. "But such madness I could afford. It is such madness as never comes a second time."

Dolores appeared a little shaken, but the first of wrath, the blood of her father, was in her temples. She clenched her hands and her eyes lit with the lights in the eyes of a tigress about to spring.

"You did not tell your father you knew me—that it meant anything to you," she burst forth. "That is enough—that in itself."

It was impossible now for him to tell her his reason. To have told the truth would have seemed to be framing a weak lie. He merely said: "I would have told him soon."

"Oh, well," she said, with a magnificence of coldness. "I might have known. You are like the rest—bold as a lion in your self-indulgence, but a craven coward in facing the obligations of life. What is the expression? Oh, yes—you are a little yellow, Robinson Slade—like your father's sinister influence. I have found out so fortunate that I have found out before it was too serious, and it is too bad that I did not find out sooner. Do you know what it means to be a girl without a single friendly hand—alone—eternally subject to the assault of men's conspiracies and women's poisoned tongues? Do you know what you have done to wrong me? So much! Well, it is over. I look upon you for the last time, I hope."

"You mean that without knowing more—without hearing me—you would send me away after all our world we have made together—all our plans?"

"You better go," she said, with a curling of her lip. She said herself was putting the words into her mouth. "If you ever come here again I shall know better than ever that you are without self-respect or pride or decency."

The younger Slade was not without pride and passion of his own; he seized his straw hat, and with red- dened face started toward the door.

"Wait!" Dolores commanded. "You have forgotten something."

"What?"

"Your trinket."

He laughed in no pleasant tone. "Then I shall send it to your father."

The threat fired him. He burst forth. "The things you have said to me I will never forget, nor will I ever come back to you unless you ask me; but if you send the pearl to my father I would never forgive you if we lived to be a thousand years old."

"Here—then!" she said, and tossed the Eye of Cleopatra across the table. It struck him on the mouth and fell clattering on to the hardwood

MAXIMS OF A MODERN MAID

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

By Marguerite Moores Marshall. GIRLS used to count their proposals as Indiana did their scalps—on their fingers, but the girl of today uses her thumbs, and she's lucky if she can use both.

As a virtue, sincerity seems to be well spoken of, but if I may have a few hypocritically pleasant friends I can dispense easily with the disagreeable honesty.

Even if fashion does pull the hair away from the ears, one of them still will be modestly draped by the trailing trimmings of this season's hats.

Why the self-supporting woman marries: In order to have someone mentally and linguistically competent to make out her income tax.

Of all the virtues that pay no dividends, unselfishness is chief.

When a woman tells her husband that she is "sick of this life," the proper treatment for her case consists of a box of chocolates, a dozen American Beauty roses and several distinctly unkind kisses.

Once girls used to wonder if the compliments of men were "sincere," but nowadays we are so surprised and touched when one of them makes a pretty speech that we don't even think of asking if he means it.

Yes, Celeste, men are superior to women in mentality—that's why a man succeeds in persuading his wife always to remind him to wind the clock, write his thank-you notes and renew the lease on the summer bungalow.

Jealousy may be the salt of courtship, but after marriage the salt has lost its savor.

Alimony, like hypocrisy, is the tribute vice pays to virtue.

Why is it that an otherwise conservative and law-abiding husband and father insists on inciting revolution among the children against their mother's dietetic rule?

Worry Will Stop a Watch

WATCHES which are really good of time-keepers may, at times, be delicate workmanship, and have jeweled movements, respond to the moods of their wearers. Thus, if a person suffers great emotional excitement, or worries a good deal, the watch worn at the time may become variable and erratic and may actually stop.

Peasants are especially sympathetic. Their condition varies with the health of their wearers, so much so that if a sick woman were to continue to wear her pearls they would lose their luster.

The fire furies from the opal if its wearer becomes ill. And many writers have remarked upon the peculiar quality in catseyes and moonstones which makes them respond to the intelligence of their wearers—they shine their brightest when worn by intellectually brilliant people.

floor between two Turkestan rugs. He turned away and passed out through the hangings at the door.

She stayed motionless, breathing hard, her lips pressed tightly together until long after the door had closed. Then suddenly the realization of his going came to her, and she sank on to her knees and buried her face in the cushion of the wicker chair.

"Robbie! Come back!" she cried out. "Robbie, come back to me. I lied to you, Robbie. I love you. Come back to me!"

When she had caught her breath she listened and heard only the cough and purr of motors on the asphalt street below the window. She picked up the pearl and stared at it a long time. It was in a gay mood—this gem; it was filled with life and flash of rosy light.

"It is the only thing—the only thing he ever gave me," she said, holding it in her palm. "But I will send it back to him—tomorrow."

Then suddenly, as she looked at it, she saw the lights in it fade out; it lapsed into a miserable gray. Perhaps it was saying to her that she should not so easily get rid of it. Two days later she learned that Robbie had gone on one of his father's ships on a voyage to the West Coast of South America.

If with the ownership of the Cleopatra's Eye there went a strange and sinister influence, Annette had made a good beginning. Annette, to whom the story of the pearl had filtered, counseled the earliest riddance of it.

"Be still!" said Dolores. "Never speak of the pearl to me again. I do not wear it. It is gone—into a safe place. It is not mine. I am not the owner. Besides, the superstition is nonsense—plain nonsense."

Annette was incorrigible. She replied, "Well, it came into our home over two months ago. Already the o which you put most of your savings of this winter has lost all its value because of that law suit. You have lost all your best gowns by burglary. Have you not, Mademoiselle? How is it that Mrs. Tremayer Collier turned her back upon you and went off to Europe? Do you have any more engagements offered to you—you who can sing like no other?"

"But it is spring, Annette. The musical season is over."

"Hail Over eh? Did not Mrs. Orzicka take your place at?"

"Hush!" commanded Dolores. "It is absurd."

"Absurd?" I wonder," Annette persisted. "Even you—Mademoiselle, you are not the same. So much of irritation. Ah! I tell you bad temper makes enemies, and enemies will gossip about a beautiful young girl who has no one to protect her. What have you? Your voice. That is your true friend—just as my pretty face was once. But if bad luck comes even your voice may lose. Perhaps a sneeze—a cold—a cough. Mademoiselle, it might be gone forever. Better sell the wicked thing while there is yet time!"

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Poison People and Others.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The greatest danger may appear too insignificant to fear.

—Mother Bear

AS Mother Bear led the twins away from the flat rock on which lay Buzztail the Rattle snake, the whirling of his rattle stopped. Boxer noticed it right away and spoke of it.

"He has stopped shaking that rattle on the end of his tail because there is no longer anybody near. He is very terrible, is Buzztail, when he strikes with those poison fangs he carries; but, as I said before, he gives warning. He is very fair about it."

Most of the Snake family have pointed teeth, replied Mother Bear. "That is the name of certain long, pointed teeth," replied Mother Bear. "Most of the Snake family have pointed teeth, but only the poison people have fangs. These are long teeth, one on each side of the upper jaw, and are just for biting and putting the dreadful poison into the blood of the one bitten."

"What is poison?" asked Boxer. "I don't know just what it is," confessed Mother Bear. "All I know is that it is something which when used by a member of the Snake family is almost sure to kill. Never meddle with the poison people, my children, if you want to grow up."

"Do all Snakes belong to the poison people?" asked Woof-Woof anxiously.

"No. No, indeed!" cried Mother Bear. "Most of the Snake family are harmless, and if you are smart enough to catch any of them you will find them very good eating. Only two around here are dangerous, Buzztail and Copperhead. But some of the feather folk who spend their winters way down South tell me that down there are two more members of the poison people, Cotton Mouth the Moccasin, and in some places a little red, black and yellow ringer Snake called the Coral Snake. The only ones you have to think of are Buzztail and Copperhead."

"I saw Mr. Blacksnake the other day and he looked very fierce and hissed in a most unpleasant way," said Boxer.

Mother Bear laughed. "Mr. Blacksnake is one of the greatest bluffers I know of. He is harmless, absolutely harmless to little Bears. All he wants is a chance to run. Catch him if you can."

"But how are we going to know Copperhead when we see him?" asked Woof-Woof, and it was clear that she was a wee bit worried.

Mother Bear sat up and scratched her head thoughtfully. She was puzzled. She didn't know just how to explain to those little Bears the appearance of Copperhead. "If you meet a member of the Snake family all black or all green, or all blue or striped with rings around his body, don't be afraid of him," said she at last. "But if you meet one with a broad, flat head, one whose coat appears to be patchy, keep away. Be polite and allow him to have the path. He may be harmless, but he may be Copperhead, and you know it is better to be safe than sorry. It is better to step aside a hundred times for harmless Snakes than to fail to do so once for one of the poison people. Buzztail will warn you, but look out for Copperhead."

"The twins thought it all over. 'I'm going to keep away from all Snakes,' whispered Woof-Woof to Buster after a while."

"And he laughed at for being afraid of nothing?" inquired Boxer. "I'm not going to have any harmless Snakes laughing at me, I can tell you that!"

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE FICTIONIST.

You know the little fellow with the tangled tousled hair
Whose feet just reach beyond the edge of yonder easy chair?
He's been around and seen the world, and if you know him well,
He'll make you gaze in wonder at the tales he has to tell.
And you will learn to your surprise that in the world today
The fairy kings we thought were dead still hold their royal sway.

A mouse, he says, once caught a prince of fairyland in bed
And showed his sharp and shining teeth, and vowed he'd eat him dead
Unless the prince would give him wings, so when the dusk grew dim,
And tried to make a meal of him, he'd save the brute and fly.
The prince provided him with wings so he might save the cat,
And then the mean thing made him blind—so now he's just a bat.

He says that once a fairy queen who lost her little son,
Distressed and broken-hearted with the careless thing she'd done,
Gave all the crickets candles, so that when the dusk grew dim,
They still might search the forest and the countryside for him.
And that explains the fireflies which hurry all around
Still looking for the fairy's child, who never has been found.

I wonder often how he learned the many things he knows.
Somehow I've never chanced upon such miracles as those.
But, though it's barely possible that some of them are true,
I wish his fond belief in them might last his life time through.
Truth serves its turn for all of us, and yet when all is said
What has the world to offer us when childhood's faith has fled?

A member of an exclusive London

"The nobleman who took away an

"Say," said a fellow member the next day, "why should you suppose that a nobleman has taken your um-

"Well," he replied, "the first ar-

"Oh, that's all right," said the
